President Truman Withdraws Nomination Of E. W. Pauley as Secretary of the Navy

Soviet Reinforcements in Iran Threaten to Pose Crucial Test for U.N.O. Ability to Keep the Peace

New Strain Develops in Relations Between the United States, Russia on Matter

Note to Moscow
Message to Russia Asks About Move of Troops Toward Turkey

By JOHN HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Diplomatic Writer

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Reports of large Red army reinforcements moving into Iran put a new strain on Russian-American relations today and threatened a critical test of U.N.O.'s powers to preserve peace.

The reports have yet to be formally confirmed or officially denied, but this government has sent a note to Moscow asking what the Russians are up to and why. Also the reports have sufficient weight to have prompted an official State Department announcement that they had been received. The department's statement last night said its information was to the effect that "during the last week additional Soviet armed forces and heavy military combat equipment have been moving southward from the direction of the Russian border toward the Iranian capital of Tehran and toward that country's western border."

Headed for Turkey
The western border divides Iran from Turkey and oil-rich Iraq. Officials here are frankly puzzled as to the Russian objective in sending more troops into a country from which it was supposed by international agreement to have withdrawn all its forces by March 2.

Speculation on what the Russians may be up to covers three possibilities. Diplomats believe (1) They may be trying to force a pro-Soviet government on Iran, or (2) To bring sufficient threats of force against Turkey to win territorial concessions and rights in the Dardanelles, or (3) That they

New Bus Will Be Placed in Service Here After Adjustments Are Completed

A modern bus has arrived at the garage of the Kingston City Transportation Corporation and will be placed in service as soon as several small adjustments are made, it was announced today by Henry C. Page, president of the local transportation service. The new bus will carry 27 passengers seated, which gives a larger carrying capacity than the present buses now operated by the company. Powered with a special Ford eight-cylinder motor, the bus is equipped with double air-operated doors which will speed loading and unloading by allowing passengers to enter by the front door and leave by the side exit while other passengers are boarding the bus. Air brakes are part of the equipment, along with three heaters placed at strategic points. Modern lighting affords adequate illumination, and the center aisle is spacious enough to allow easier traffic.

Buses have been on order by the local company since last July in keeping with the promise made during the franchise negotiations with the Common Council. Repeatedly the promise of delivery on the buses has been advanced, stated Mr. Page, and when the opportunity presented itself to acquire the new bus, the local company purchased it immediately. The new bus will be subject to rigid tests in actual operation on routes operated by the Kingston City Transportation Corporation in Kingston, and Mr. Page intimated that if it proves to be successful in operation peculiar to local conditions, more of the same type may be acquired.

State Income Tax Cut 50 Per Cent

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Governor Dewey signed today his $122,000,000 tax reduction program bills, including the 50 per cent state personal income tax slash.

Business tax cuts include elimination of the one and one-half per cent emergency corporation franchise tax and cuts the emergency unincorporated business tax from four to three per cent.

The total savings to personal income taxpayers is estimated at $90,000,000. The corporation franchise tax reduction is $25,000,000 and the unincorporated business tax cut is $7,000,000.

The 50 per cent personal income tax cut doubles the reduction previously in effect.

Revenue collections after these reductions are expected to total $558,500,000.

The tax cut program is a feature of the governor's record-smashing $555,000,000 budget for 1946-47 approved last month by the legislature. It is expected by administration officials to encourage business expansion in the state as well as lighten the load for the individual taxpayer.

Elimination of the emergency business franchise tax, in force since November 1, 1936, returns the franchise tax rate to its normal four and one-half per cent.

Each year since Dewey took office in 1943, revenues have greatly exceeded his estimates. Even with the new tax cuts, the surplus for the coming fiscal year is expected to be about $2,700,000.

75 Local Vets Enrolled Here in Training Program

Several Apprenticeship Training Programs in Addition to "On the Job" Plan

Approximately 75 returned service men have been enrolled among 26 Kingston and Ulster county firms now offering the "on the job" training program for veterans and additional men will be placed as soon as additional applications for the program have been approved. There are several additional "on the job" training programs pending and as soon as approval has been received additional men will be given an opportunity to earn while they learn.

According to the New York State Councilors, Division of Veterans Affairs, located at the Veterans Service Agency, 240 Fair street, the program is now beginning to roll after getting off to a slow start.

In addition to the "on the job" training programs already in operation there are also several apprenticeship training programs which have been presented to the State Apprenticeship Council at Albany for approval.

While programs are now filled and the concerns having approval for the program are not in a position to handle additional men at the present time, there will be future opportunities for veterans. One of the councilors for the service, stated today that while no additional men could be enrolled at this time, the delay was in some instances due to necessary machinery being temporarily held up.

When this condition is relieved and additional machines are available more men will be taken on.

Many of the 26 training programs now in effect are for one, two and three men and all were quickly filled as soon as state approval was granted.

Any individual or concern desiring to establish a program for veterans should contact Councilor Howard C. Shurtler at the local office at 240 Fair street. Advice on how to file application and the benefits which may be derived from the training program will be given.

Extra $38,851 to Go For Welfare in City

Additional Money Voted by Democrats Besides That Allotted in Budget

The Democratic majority in the Common Council Tuesday evening unanimously voted in favor of granting the request of the city's welfare department for an additional appropriation of $38,851.78, which the department claimed was needed to carry on the welfare program this year in the city, in addition to the amount allotted to the department in the budget adopted earlier in the year.

The finance ways and means committee, to whom the request had been referred last week, submitted both a majority and minority report. The majority report was signed by Alderman Joseph Amato and Alderman Peter Simpson, while the minority report was made by Alderman Victor H. Roth.

The majority report, which was adopted by a party vote of 7 to 6, recommended that the request be granted, and budget notes be issued.

Alderman Roth's minority report read as follows:

Explanation Lacking
A communication dated February 16, 1946 from the Department of Public Welfare, requesting a supplemental appropriation of $38,851.78 as the city's share of the cost of old age assistance, assistance to the blind, aid to dependent children and home relief, in addition to any amounts appropriated in the 1946 budget of the City of Kingston, has been referred to your committee. No explanation was furnished with this request as to the exact manner in which it is proposed to expend these moneys.

The 1946 budget of the City of Kingston, which was presented by the mayor to the Common Council only six weeks ago and then adopted, sets forth an expenditure by the city of $105,100.76 for welfare and relief in the year 1946 and estimates revenues to be received from the state and federal governments for welfare and relief to aggregate $104,547.22. In other words, there was really no appropriation above and apart from the sum which the city will receive back from the state and federal government.

Your minority member of this committee well recognizes that the city has a duty to those in need of old age assistance, of assistance to the blind, of aid to dependent children and of home relief, and is willing to cooperate in all steps necessary and proper for their care.

Should State Necessity
It is respectfully submitted, however, that it should be abundantly clear that there is an immediate

Bodies of Albany Men Are Found In Hudson River

Edgar William Connors, Charles Karius Were Missing Since November 23

The bodies of two Albany men, who had been reported missing since November 23, of last year, were found within a day of each other in the Hudson river. One was found Monday floating in the river off Port Ewen, while the body of the second man was washed ashore two miles north of Rhinecliff Tuesday.

The men have been identified as Charles Karius, 64, of 229 Hamilton street, and Edgar William Connors, 45, of 61 Oakwood street.

The body of Karius was found floating in the river by LeRoy Sleight who was working about his camp on the river road below Port Ewen on Monday afternoon. He notified the sheriff's office, and the body was taken ashore where it was taken in charge by Coroner Ernest A. Kelly.

Coroner Kelly said this morning that the body had been identified by Charles B. Franklin, of Albany, a nephew of the dead man.

The only means of identification on the body when found was a social security card bearing Karius's name.

According to the Dutchess county authorities the body of Connors had been washed ashore

Friday Last Day For Tax Returns

Friday, March 15, is the last day to file Federal income tax returns for the 1945 period. Collector of Internal Revenue Harry M. Hickey of Albany announced today that the Kingston Division office, Main street and Clinton avenue, would remain open until midnight on Friday to accommodate last minute filers.

The local office is open from 8:30 a. m. until midnight on March 15 only, and local officials urge that all those who can, file their returns during the regular office hours and avoid the last minute rush which is bound to take place. The office is open daily with several tax experts ready to give assistance to taxpayers.

Churchill Visits Dewey, May Have Talked Alliance

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Reasons for Winston Churchill's visit with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey remained a secret today as the former British Prime Minister prepared to entrain for New York City.

Churchill conferred well into the night with the 1944 Republican presidential nominee at the executive mansion after a dinner that featured roast beef and Yorkshire pudding.

It was the first meeting of the British statesman and the titular leader of the Republican party. The visit was arranged at Churchill's request by Lord Halifax, retiring British ambassador to Washington. Churchill declined to hold a press conference.

Capitol circles speculated that one of the topics of discussion was an Anglo-United States military alliance, which Churchill proposed in his recent Missouri speech assailing the post war actions and attitudes of the Soviet Union.

Lehman Resigns As UNRRA Head

Former Governor to Quit Relief Post Because of Ill Health

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Herbert H. Lehman is resigning, because of his health, from the post of U.N.R.R.A. Director General which he has held since the relief agency's birth.

"I had hoped to remain with the work throughout the life of U.N.R.R.A. and until the continuing part of the program had been entrusted to some other more permanent organization," he said in a letter to the U.N.R.R.A. Central Committee.

"Unfortunately, however, I feel I must finally accept the advice of my physician who, for many months, has urged me to take a much needed rest."

Lehman's letter, which he made public last night, noted that he resigned as Governor of New York in 1942, three weeks before the end of his term, to take the helm of relief activities at the request of President Roosevelt.

Republicans Vote Down $95,000 Bond Issue; Roth Says Plans Not Definite

An ordinance authorizing a $95,000 bond issue to be used for street improvements failed adoption Tuesday evening at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council when the necessary two-thirds majority vote favoring it was not recorded.

The seven Democratic aldermen voted solidly in favor of adoption, while the six Republican aldermen in voting against the passage of the measure, upheld Alderman Victor H. Roth's contention that the bond issue could only be used for capital improvements, and not for maintenance and repairs of streets as contended by the Democratic majority.

Alderman Roth in a minority report contended that there should be included in the majority report of the finance ways and means committee a list of streets it was proposed to reconstruct, together with an estimate of the costs.

Alderman Roth and President John J. Schwenk suggested that a recess be taken until the majority report of the committee could be amended, but Alderman Peter Simpson decided to have the report submitted for a vote as originally drawn.

Six Weeks Of Strife Now Ended

Action Taken at Request of Pauley; Gets Praise For Today's Patriotic Move

Was Reluctant

President Expresses His 'Full Confidence' in Man He Favored

Washington, March 13 (AP)—President Truman today withdrew the nomination of Edwin W. Pauley, California oil man, to be undersecretary of the navy.

The President acted at Pauley's request. He said Pauley's defense of his "good name" has been "valiant and conclusive."

In a letter, Mr. Truman told Pauley that he "met the challenge" of his nomination "with facts" and added:

"You answered prejudice with a complete and forthright resume of your career and with an amazing patience under continued misrepresentation."

The first announcement of the withdrawal came from Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee after a 30-minute closed session of the group.

At the same time, Walsh handed reporters a statement declaring that the committee "commends" Pauley "for his patriotic action in requesting the President to withdraw his nomination."

The action wound up six weeks of controversy which boiled up at one point in the explosive resignation of Harold L. Ickes as secretary of interior. Ickes had criticized the nomination.

The White House made public an exchange of letters between the President and Pauley shortly after the note of withdrawal was sent to Leslie Biddle, secretary of the Senate.

After expressing his "full confidence" in Pauley, the President wrote, "I shall reluctantly withdraw your nomination."

"But I shall do so not without ironical reflections," the President added. "Your honor, integrity, fidelity to duty and capacity for public service have been completely established."

"All of these considerations and circumstances fully justify the confidence which I reposed in you and which prompted me to call you to the service of the Department of the Navy. So, you stand before your countrymen after vicious and unwarranted attacks with integrity unscathed, with ability unquestioned, with honor unimpaired."

No Appeal

Judgment Obtained by Police and Firemen Will Stand

The judgment obtained by the police and firemen in the action brought against the city in supreme court, amounting to $134,16, will not be appealed, and the Common Council Tuesday evening unanimously adopted the report of its finance ways and means committee recommending that budget notes be issued to pay the amount.

Last year the fire board and the police board voted increases of $10 a month to each member of the two departments, and this increase was paid until the first of January of this year, when the increases were not included in the budget, and payments were withheld.

The police and firemen retained Attorney Francis Martocci and brought action against the city to restore the pay cuts. Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schrick before whom the action was tried handed down a decision in favor of the police and firemen, and granted a judgment against the city.

Last night Mayor W. F. Edelmuth in a communication to the council enclosed a copy of the court decision together with the judgment granted, and wrote that in his opinion the decision was "a sound and equitable one."

The mayor wrote that it was necessary for the council to decide whether the city should appeal from the court's decision.

The aldermen unanimously voted not to appeal the action, and authorized the issuance of budget notes to pay the judgment.

State Income Tax Cut 50 Per Cent

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Governor Dewey signed today his $122,000,000 tax reduction program bills, including the 50 per cent state personal income tax slash.

Business tax cuts include elimination of the one and one-half per cent emergency corporation franchise tax and cuts the emergency unincorporated business tax from four to three per cent.

Extra $38,851 to Go For Welfare in City

Additional Money Voted by Democrats Besides That Allotted in Budget

The Democratic majority in the Common Council Tuesday evening unanimously voted in favor of granting the request of the city's welfare department for an additional appropriation of $38,851.78, which the department claimed was needed to carry on the welfare program this year in the city, in addition to the amount allotted to the department in the budget adopted earlier in the year.

The finance, ways and means committee, to whom the request had been referred last week, submitted both a majority and minority report. The majority report was signed by Alderman Joseph Amato and Alderman Peter Simpson, while the minority report was made by Alderman Victor H. Roth.

The majority report, which was adopted by a party vote of 7 to 6, recommended that the request be granted, and budget notes be issued.

Alderman Roth's minority report read as follows:

Explanation Lacking

A communication dated February 16, 1946 from the Department of Public Welfare, requesting a supplemental appropriation of $38,851.78 as the city's share of the cost of old age assistance, assistance to the blind, aid to dependent children and home relief, in addition to any amounts appropriated in the 1946 budget of the City of Kingston, has been referred to your committee. No explanation was furnished with this request as to the exact manner in which it is proposed to expend these moneys.

The 1946 budget of the city of Kingston, which was presented by the mayor to the Common Council only six weeks ago and then adopted, sets forth an expenditure by the city of $105,100.76 for welfare and relief for the year 1946 and estimates revenues to be received from the state and federal governments for welfare and relief to aggregate $104,547.22. In other words, there was really no appropriation above and apart from the sum which the city will receive back from the state and federal government.

Friday Last Day For Tax Returns

Friday, March 15, is the last day to file Federal income tax returns for the 1945 period. Collector of Internal Revenue Harry M. Hickey of Albany announced today that the Kingston Division office, Main street and Clinton avenue, would remain open until midnight on Friday to accommodate last minute filers.

The local office is open from 8:30 a. m. until midnight on March 15 only, and local officials urge that all those who can, file their returns during the regular office hours and avoid the last minute rush which is bound to take place. The office is open daily with several tax experts ready to give assistance to taxpayers.

Lackawack Dam Contract Is Given to White Plains Firm

A contract for completion of the Merriman Dam at Lackawack in Ulster county, the first storage unit of the new Delaware-Rondout water supply system for the city of New York, was awarded by the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York yesterday afternoon. President V. A. Huie of the Board of Water Supply, announced.

Work will get under way immediately by the S. A. Healy Company of White Plains whose bid for $11,300,800 was the low figure submitted on February 26, last.

Will Start in Spring

Acceptance of the bid will mean that the contractors will move machinery to the job within the next few weeks and men will be at work on the job by early spring. Key men will be on the works immediately and since the work to be completed consists largely of labor, the resumption of work on the job will give employment to a big force of local men including laborers, stone masons, crane operators, tractor and truck drivers and numerous associated trades. It is estimated that the work will be completed within four years.

It was stated today that machinery would be moved to the job from White Plains and the contractors would endeavor to take full advantage of the present summer season.

The S. A. Healy Company of White Plains were successful bidders for two of the sections of the Delaware Tunnel which was completed before the war and which conveys water from the Lackawack job to the West Branch reservoir. The Healy company built the tunnel section in Orange county as well as a section in Westchester county. At present there is some water being delivered to New York from the Rondout by means of the tunnel. A small diversion dam was built at the site of the Merriman dam and an 800 foot diversion tunnel connects the creek with the tunnel at Sha's No. 1. Through this method the flow of the creek is diverted but there is no ability to take advantage of Lehman's letter, which he made public last night, noted that he resigned as Governor of New York in 1932, three weeks before the end of his term, to take the helm of relief activities at the request of President Roosevelt.

Strikes at a Glance

(By The Associated Press)

Nation's labor disputes keep idle approximately 150,000.

Major developments:

Automotive—Anonymous General Motors official says company and union have reached agreement on wage issue, with only a few other non-economic issues remaining to be solved, negotiations continue today after all-night session, union spokesman says settlement appears imminent.

Coal—Actual negotiations between John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' leader, and bituminous coal producers not expected to start until next week. Union in present arguments today in support of nine general demands, including higher pay, shorter work week and health and welfare fund for 400,000 soft coal workers.

Brass—4,300 striking C.I.O. mine, mill and smelter workers granted 15 1/2 cent hourly wage increase by Seattle, one of "Big Three" in brass industry, to vote on ratification, approval means reopening of big Washington, Conn., plant on Monday after five-week strike.

The workers of Kingston want a Union contract and working conditions. We are here to help them achieve their aim. It is their right as free American citizens.

I am confident that the Kingston community will support the workers in their fight.

Action Taken at Request of Pauley; Gets Praise For Today's Patriotic Move

Was Reluctant

President Expresses His 'Full Confidence' in Man He Favored

Washington, March 13 (AP)—President Truman today withdrew the nomination of Edwin W. Pauley, California oil man, to be undersecretary of the navy.

The President acted at Pauley's request. He said Pauley's defense of his "good name" has been "valiant and conclusive."

In a letter, Mr. Truman told Pauley that he "met the challenge" of his nomination "with facts" and added:

"You answered prejudice with a complete and forthright resume of your career and with an amazing patience under continued misrepresentation."

The first announcement of the withdrawal came from Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee after a 30-minute closed session of the group.

At the same time, Walsh handed reporters a statement declaring that the committee "commends" Pauley "for his patriotic action" in requesting the President to withdraw his nomination.

"The controversy which boiled up at one point in the explosive resignation of Harold L. Ickes as secretary of interior, Ickes had criticized the nomination."

The White House made public an exchange of letters between the President and Pauley shortly after the note of withdrawal was sent to Leslie Biddle, secretary of the Senate.

After expressing his "full confidence" in Pauley, the President wrote, "I shall reluctantly withdraw your nomination."

"But I shall do so without ironical reflections," the President added. "Your honor, integrity, fidelity to duty and capacity for public service have been completely established."

"All of these considerations and circumstances fully justify the confidence which I reposed in you and which prompted me to call you to the service of the Department of the Navy. So you stand before your countrymen after victory and unwarranted attacks with integrity unscathed, with ability unquestioned, with honor unassailed."

No Appeal

Judgment Obtained by Police and Firemen Will Stand

The judgment obtained by the police and firemen in the action brought against the city in summary judgment amounting to $1,131.16, will not be appealed, and the Common Council Tuesday evening unanimously adopted the report of its finance, ways and means committee recommending that budget notes be issued to pay the amount.

Last year the fire board and the police board voted increases of $19 a month to each member of the two departments and this increase was paid until the first of January of this year, when the increases were not included in the budget, and payments were withheld.

The police and firemen retained Attorney Francis M. Harkin and brought action against the city to restore the pay cut. Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schuchman before whom the action was tried handed down a decision in favor of the police and firemen, and granted a judgment against the city.

Last night Mayor W. F. Edelmuth announced a compromise to the demand for the city to decide whether the city should appeal from the court's decision.

The council unanimously voted not to appeal the action, and approved the issuance of budget notes to pay the judgment.

Youth Canteen Future Uncertain

No Definite Decision Is Made in Meeting
Held at Noon

With about $175 in outstanding debts, no present building and a board of directors presenting a drastic statement, the student members of the Colonial Canteen Youth Center met for a serious session at Kingston High School this noon. No definite decision on plans for the future were made.

Watson Goodrich, student president, presided and called on George Matthews, Mrs. Charles de la Vergne and Mrs. Frederick Stang from the board of directors to present the views taken by the adult committee.

During the discussion it was brought to the attention of the young people that in order to continue at the Clara Norton Reed House it would cost approximately $3,000 a year. A financial statement of $1476 although no further statement was available for the weeks following.

For the year of its existence the canteen has received $1,452.69 from membership dues, miscellaneous sales and donations. Total disbursements to the end of January were $1,447.93 for sundry expenses mainly salaries of supervisors, fuel and repair bills. The adult committee has assumed most of the financial responsibilities during the year.

The statement of the board of directors in part follows: "The members of the board stated that they felt constrained to close the building because of the heavy financial burden of operating the project and the fact that only a small portion of the membership availed themselves of the privilege of the Canteen. They further felt that under the present organization the young people have neither demonstrated their interest in a constructive program of activity nor had they shown the capacity for leadership and co-operation which were necessary to the success of such a project."

"They further stated, however, that the nine months' operation of the Canteen had clearly evidenced the necessity for unified community attention to the problem of integrating the social and intellectual activity of the Kingston young people and of developing in them a sense of citizenship and community responsibility."

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 13 (AP)—Pessimistic forces took hold in the stock market today and leaders dropped one to more than four points in the most active dealings this week.

A wide group of steels, rails, motors, metals, and specialties were in supply on the downturn, and the ticker tape fell behind at times. Near the fourth hour there was little tendency toward recovery from the lows.

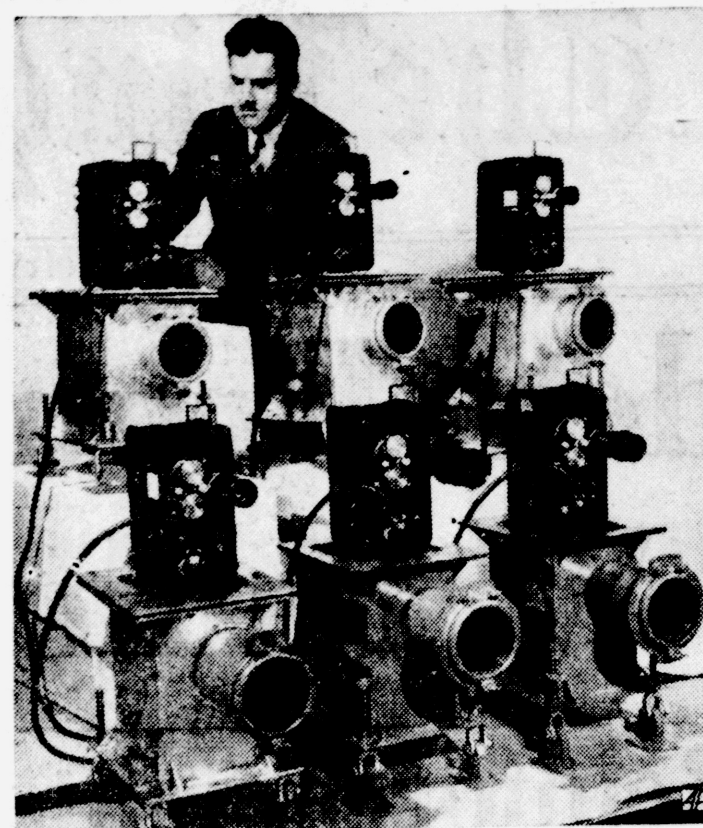

Tenseness in the international picture was said by brokers to be discouraging to investors and to be leading to a general lightening of commitments after several days of indecision. Imminence of a settlement of the General Motors strike was ignored in view of general bearishness over earnings prospects and continued threats of further walkouts in other industries.

Prominent on the slide were Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Goodyear, Schenley, American Telephone, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, American Can, Southern Railway, Santa Fe, American Smelting, A. Reduction, General Electric, Dow Chemical, Johns-Manville, Paramount Pictures, Electric Power & Light, Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, Youngstown Sheet and Douglas Aircraft, Western Union. A opened down 3 points on a block of 3,300 shares after announcement of omission of the dividend.

Yeast Seen Clue To Stronger Diet For Regular Army

Would Compensate for 40 Per Cent of Food to Be Saved for Europe

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Science Reporter

Atlantic City, March 13 (AP)—One Way for American housewives to make up for the 40 per cent cut in wheat and 20 in fats for the starving peoples overseas, is to add yeast to many of their home-cooked dishes.

Experiments showing that this addition of yeasts is both palatable and one of the greatest improvements possible in nutrition were presented today to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by Barnett Sure, head of the Department of Agricultural Chemistry of the University of Arkansas.

He showed by animal feeding that yeasts are one of the finest sources of protein, and furnish better proteins than those normally present in the wheat that Americans are asked to give up. The yeasts used for this purpose are both the ordinary sort and brewer's yeast, the latter a byproduct of breweries.

He said that these yeasts can be used readily to enrich corn bread, rice, meat dishes, soups, especially thick soups and gravies, ketchup, chili, tomato juice, peanut butter, chocolate milk, malted milk, all in bread, muffins and clam chowder. And in cookies, cakes, doughnuts, steams and cheese dishes. The yeasts were said not to change flavors of the dishes.

These yeasts dishes provide in addition the entire vitamin B complex in rich amounts.

Oppose Hotel Levy

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—A legislator from a summer resort district objected today to Mayor William O'Dwyer's proposal to impose a 10 per cent tax on hotel room rentals in New York city. Assemblyman Joseph R. Young, love, Republican, of Fulton and Hamilton counties, said he was opposed "to any tax plan that would shift the rightful burden from New York city to the other areas of the state."

Sailor Arrested

Robert Hamilton, 20, of Sleightsburgh, a member of the U. S. Navy, was arrested last night at the Empire Diner on Broadway, by Dorothy Van Den Luan, whose home is in Chicago, but who is stopping at 240 South Wall street. She charged the sailor with disorderly conduct. This morning in police court Hamilton was given a suspended sentence by Judge Matthew V. Cahill.

Progress in Arctic

Aboard the Carrier Midway off Cape Mudge, Labrador, March 13 (AP)—Rear Adm. John H. Casady today described as "most profitable" the first 12 days of the Midway's Arctic cruise because, he said, "we have found out a lot of things that were wrong." Further tests of carrier plane and ship operations in the frigid waters will take still another week before the Midway turns homeward.

Artist Suicide

Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Dr. Amos O. Squire, Westchester county medical examiner, said today John S. Lowe, 38, magazine artist found dead in his apartment Sunday, had died of carbon monoxide poisoning from illuminating gas. Squire ruled Lowe had committed "suicide while temporarily mentally disturbed."

Men and Tobacco

New York, March 13 (AP)—The 6,695-ton American Export liner Eximstar arrived today from Istanbul, Turkey, with 701 tons of Turkish tobacco and four passengers. George H. Earle, former governor of Pennsylvania, and his 20-year-old bride were not aboard the vessel as had been announced at Istanbul.

Money Problem Settled

China is about to settle its foreign exchange problem, according to O. K. Yui, Chinese Minister of Finance in Shanghai. This will probably enable hundreds of American firms to resume business in imports and exports, stifled since the war. Yui added that measures to stabilize the currency and commodity prices also had been determined upon.

Soviet-American Ties Threatened

may have some designs on the Mosul oil fields of Iraq.

Sharper Conflict

If any of these or a combination is the answer, it seems certain that Russians aims will be sharper conflict with British interests and with American pronouncements than at any time since war's end. Top officials here firmly expect that unless the Russians change course and greatly modify their reported activities the whole issue again will be thrown into the United Nations Security Council, scheduled to open its next meeting in New York March 25.

The Iranian case was presented to the council at its recent London meeting by Iran itself with an appeal for some action to end alleged Soviet infringements on Iranian independence. The case finally was dismissed with a statement that Iran and Russia should try to settle their differences by direct negotiations. For that purpose Iran Premier Ahmed Qavam Es Saltaneh went to Moscow but failed to reach a settlement.

Gave Politics as Excuse

While he was there the March 2 deadline passed and the Russians announced that while they would make a partial withdrawal they would keep some troops on hand until the troubled political conditions in the Province of Azerbaijan were settled.

Considerable significance is attached by authorities here to Secretary of State Byrnes' recent declaration that "Veto or no veto" the American government intends to back up its commitments under the United Nations charter to the limit, even with force if necessary. Speculation is that on any proposal for the council to take strong action on either Iran or Turkey, Russia would exercise its right of veto. Byrnes' declaration might be interpreted then as meaning that the United States and such other countries as hold the same view would act in spite of the veto.

Von Blomberg Dead

Nuernberg, March 13 (AP)—Field Marshal Werner Von Blomberg, Minister of War in the first Hitler cabinet, died of heart failure today at the 116th General Hospital where he was waiting to be summoned as a witness in the Nuernberg trials.

Workers Over 65 Urged to Check on Security Benefits

Social Security Board Here Urges Workers 65 Years Old to 'Peg' Benefits

Charles E. Burke, manager of the Social Security Board's office at Kingston, today issued a reminder that workers who have reached age 65 and have been employed in jobs covered by the Social Security Act long enough to be insured may "peg" their old-age and survivors insurance benefits, whether or not they plan to retire soon.

The reminder, Mr. Burke said, is intended to help prevent any loss of benefits by older persons who may lose their jobs, may suffer reductions in total pay, or may lose considerable time from work because of illness or a change of jobs.

"Once a benefit is pegged by the worker or former worker," Mr. Burke said, "it cannot go down. But it may go up, if the worker gets a new job or increased pay. The Board will recalculate the benefit once a year, if the worker requests it and if it will result in higher monthly benefit for him."

Mr. Burke pointed out that the Board has been urging workers and former workers in employment covered by the Social Security Act to confer with its local officials at age 65, so that the Board people may advise them of their proper action to take in order to protect their full benefit rights.

"Many have come in and filed claims to protect their rights, others have failed to do so," Mr. Burke said. "With the cut-backs that have occurred in many lines of work since the war ended, it would be well for every man and woman who has worked in covered employment and has reached the age of 65 to check up on social security benefits. We're ready to help and we have worked out a system that is practically loss-proof."

"Many workers aged 65 or over do not realize that when they lose considerable time from covered employment, for any reason whatever, or when their total pay goes down, their old-age and survivors insurance benefits may go down also. We want them to realize that and to get the necessary information from our office to prevent any loss of benefits."

"So we're not only inviting, we are urging, all workers and former workers in private industry and commerce—those who have done some work under social security—to come in to see us. Our office is located in the Central Post Office Building, and we are open from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday."

Town of Rochester Red Cross Workers Are Busy

Howard C. Sykes of Accord, who has a large and very interesting collection of big game specimens, trophies of his prowess on expeditions in Africa and Canada, has contributed $178.75 toward the town of Rochester Red Cross quota, proceeds of an exhibition recently given. Among his other activities Mr. Sykes is a director of the Museum of Natural History, New York city.

The town of Rochester quota also has been increased by the sum of $200 contributed by the Kerhonkson unit of the Red Cross.

I wouldn't have believed the difference it makes.

There are few subjects men talk about more than shaving—and no blade that's had so much "word-of-mouth" advertising as Pal Hollow Ground. Ordinary safety razor blades are ground like a pocket knife. Pal Blades are different—they're Hollow Ground just like a barber's razor.

Result: Pal Blades are flexible in your razor—follow facial contours effortlessly. Your shave is cool, quick, no "bearing down." And delicate edges last longer, too. That's why millions call it the Pal.

Lions Club Hears Of Transportation

Horse Car, Trolley and Bus Operations

Tracing the history of local transportation back to 1851, Henry C. Page, president of the Kingston City Transportation Corporation, at the regular meeting of the Kingston Lions Club held Tuesday, explained the various problems encountered through the years of horse car, trolley, and bus transportation.

The forerunner of the present transportation corporation was the Union Plank Road Company, a toll road, instituted on December 30, 1851. Just 14 years later, on January 31, 1865, the Kingston and Rondout Railroad Company was organized, and on May 5, 1866 this company acquired the property of the Union Plank Road Company for the sum of $25,000.

This acquisition of property gave Kingston a three and one-half mile horse car line which operated as such until May 13, 1879 when it was acquired by Thomas Cornell through foreclosure proceedings.

On June 9, 1879, the Kingston City Railroad Company was formed, operating on the rights and property of the Kingston and Rondout Railroad Company, and during that same month the new company relinquished all rights of the old Union Plank Road Company except those necessary to operate its railroad. The new company was electrified in 1893 and was extended to Kingston Point Park.

The Colonial City Electric Railroad Company was organized on June 9, 1893, and the once famous "Colonial Line" extending down Hasbrouck avenue to a connection with the former Ulster & Delaware Railroad was constructed. Foreclosure proceedings in December of 1895 transferred the "Colonial Line" to Charles M. Preston, John I. Waterbury, and August Belmont, and on January 9, 1896 the Colonial City Traction Company came into existence and purchased the old "Colonial Line" from Messrs. Preston, Waterbury, and Belmont.

The Kingston City Railroad Company, through the above period, was operating as an entirely independent line, and on May 11, 1901, it was leased to the Colonial City Transportation Company. The name of the merged companies was changed on September 4, 1901 to the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company, and continued in the business of operating trolley cars until February 4, 1926, when the present Kingston City Transportation Corporation came into being and the operation of buses was begun with five Yellow Coach buses operating on what is essentially the Hasbrouck and Washington-Foxhall routes of today.

This was the beginning of the end for trolley service in Kingston, and it was not long before buses were substituted for trolley cars on the Broadway line, giving Kingston complete bus service. Following his sketch of the history of transportation in Kingston, Mr. Page explained the workings of the present company through its franchise to operate only within the city limits. He detailed the changes in the plant and equipment, paid tribute to his employees for their service, spoke of the betterment of conditions for both the company and its employees through the advent of the union which was organized three years ago, and stated that it was the purpose of his company to afford efficient transportation to the citizens of Kingston.

Youth Canteen Future Uncertain

No Definite Decision Is
Made in Meeting
Held at Noon

With about $175 in outstanding debts, no present building and a board of directors presenting a drastic situation, the student members of the Colonial Canteen Youth Center met for a serious session at Kingston High School this noon. No definite decision on plans for the future were made.

Watson Goodrich, student president, presided and called on George Matthews, Mrs. Charles de la Vergne and Mrs. Frederick Stanz from the board of directors to present the views taken by the adult committee.

During the discussion it was brought to the attention of the young people that in order to continue at the Clara Norton Reed House it would cost approximately $3,000 a year. A financial statement as of January 31 showed a balance of $476 although no further statement was available for the weeks following.

For the year of its existence the canteen has received $1,452.69 from membership dues, miscellaneous sales and donations. Total disbursements to the end of January were $1,447.93 for sundry expenses mainly salaries of supervisors, fuel and repair bills. The adult committee has assumed most of the financial responsibilities during the year.

The statement of the board of directors in part follows: "The members of the board stated that they felt constrained to close the building because of the heavy financial burden of operating the project and the fact that only a small portion of the membership availed themselves of the privilege of the Canteen. They further felt that under the present organization the young people had neither demonstrated their interest in a constructive program of activity nor had they shown the capacity for leadership and co-operation which were necessary to the success of such a project."

"They further stated, however, that the nine months operation of the Canteen had clearly evidenced the necessity for unified community attention to the problem of integrating the social and intellectual activity of the Kingston young people and of developing in them a sense of citizenship and community responsibility."

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 13 (AP)—Pessimistic forces took hold in the stock market today and leaders dropped one to more than four points in the most active dealings this week.

A wide group of steels, rails, motors, metals, and specialties were in supply on the downturn, and the ticker tape fell behind at times. Near the fourth hour there was little tendency toward recovery from the lows.

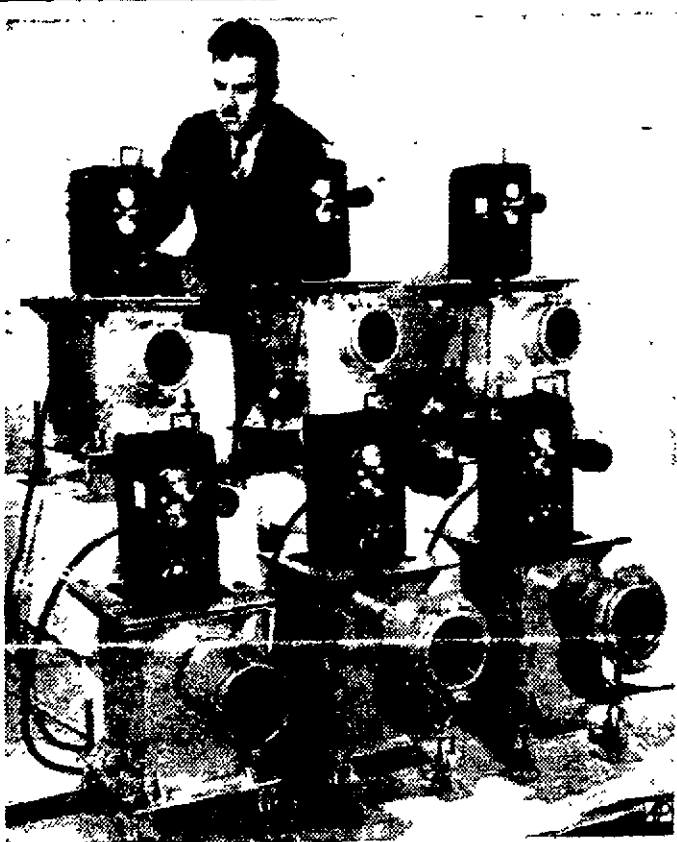

Tenseness in the international picture was said by brokers to be discouraging to investors and to be leading to a general lightening of commitments after several days of indecision. Imminence of a settlement of the General Motors strike was ignored in view of credit weakness over earnings prospects and continued threats of further walkouts in other industries.

Prominent on the slide were Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Goodyear, Schenley, American Telephone, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, American Can, Southern Railway, Santa Fe, American Smelting, Air Reduction, General Electric, Dow Chemical, Johns-Manville, Paramount Pictures, Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Aircraft, Western Union. It opened down 3 points on a bloc of 3,300 shares after announcement of omission of the dividend.

Yeast Seen Clue To Stronger Diet For Regular Army

Would Compensate for 10 Per Cent of Food to Be Saved for Europe

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Science Reporter

Atlantic City, March 13 (AP)—One Way for American housewives to make up for the 40 per cent cut in wheat and 20 in fats for the starving peoples overseas, is to add yeast to many of their home-cooked dishes.

Experiments showing that this addition of yeasts is both palatable and one of the greatest improvements possible in nutrition were presented today to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by Barnett Sure, head of the Department of Agricultural Chemistry of the University of Arkansas.

He showed by animal feeding that yeasts are one of the finest sources of protein, and furnish better proteins than those normally present in the wheat that Americans are asked to give up. The yeasts used for this purpose are both the ordinary sort and brewers' yeast, the latter a byproduct of breweries.

He said that these yeasts can be used readily to enrich corn bread, rice, meat dishes, soups, especially thick soups and gravies, ketchup, chili, tomato juice, peanut butter, chocolate milk, malted milk, also in bread, muffins and clam chowder. And in cookies, cakes, doughnuts, stews and cheese.

These yeasts dishes provide in addition the entire vitamin B complex in rich amounts.

Oppose Hotel Levy

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—A legislator from a summer resort district objected today to Mayor William O'Dwyer's proposal to impose a 10 per cent tax on hotel room rentals in New York city.

Assemblyman Joseph R. Young, love, Republican, of Fulton and Hamilton counties, said he was opposed "to any tax plan that would shift the rightful burden from New York city to the other areas of the state."

Sailor Arrested

Robert Hamilton, 20, of Sleightsburgh, a member of the U. S. Navy, was arrested last night at the Empire Diner on Broadway.

By Dorothy Van Den Lan, whose home is in Chicago, but who is stopping at 240 South West street, she charged the sailor with disorderly conduct. This morning in police court, Hamilton was given a suspended sentence by Judge Matthew V. Cahill.

Progress in Arctic

Aboard the Carrier Midway off Cape Nizkor, Labrador, March 13 (AP)—Rear Adm. John H. Casady today described as "most profitable" the first 12 days of the Midway's Arctic cruise because, he said, "we have found out a lot of things that were wrong." Further tests of carrier plane and ship operations in the frigid waters will take still another week before the Midway returns home.

Artist Suicide

Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Dr. Amos O. Squire, Westchester county medical examiner, said today John S. Lowe, 38, magazine artist found dead in his apartment Sunday, had died of carbon monoxide poisoning from illuminating gas.

Lowe had committed suicide while temporarily mentally disturbed.

Men and Tobacco

New York, March 13 (AP)—The 6,890-ton American Export liner, Eximister arrived today from Istanbul, Turkey, with 201 tons of Turkish tobacco and four passengers.

George H. Lane, former Governor of Pennsylvania, and his wife, Mrs. Lane, are expected to arrive in New York today.

China is about to settle its foreign exchange problem according to O. K. Yui, Chinese Minister of Finance, in Shanghai. This will probably enable the Chinese to resume business in imports and exports.

Soviet-American Ties Threatened

may have some designs on the Mosul oil fields of Iraq.

Sharper Conflict

If any of these or a combination is the answer, it seems certain that Russians aims will be sharper conflict with British interests and with American pronouncements than at any time since war's end.

Top officials here think, expect that unless the Russians change course and greatly modify their reported activities the whole issue again will be thrown into the United Nations Security Council, scheduled to open its next meeting in New York March 15.

The Iranian case was referred to the council at its recent London meeting by Iran itself with an appeal for some action to force alleged Soviet infringements of Iranian independence. The case finally was dismissed with a statement that Iran and Russia should try to settle their differences by direct negotiations. For that, Iranian Premier Ahmed Qasbi said, he would go to Moscow but failed to reach a settlement.

Gave Politics as Excuse

While he was there, March 2 deadline passed and the Russians announced that while they would make a partial withdrawal they would keep some troops on hand until the troubled political conditions in the Province of Azerbaijan were settled.

Considerable significance is attached by authorities here to Secretary of State Byrnes' recent declaration that "Veto or no veto" the American government intends to back up its commitments under the United Nations charter to its limit, even with force if necessary.

Speculation is that on any proposal for the council to take strong action on either Iran or Turkey, Russia would exercise its right of veto. Byrnes' declaration might be interpreted then as meaning that the United States and such other countries as hold the same view would act in spite of the veto.

Von Blomberg Dead

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 13, 1946

TRAFFIC DEATHS

Kingston was a safer city for pedestrian and motorist during 1945 than most other cities of its size in the country, according to data compiled by the National Safety Council.

Traffic fatalities in the city amounted to 4.0 per 100,000 population, comparing favorably with a rate of 10.3 per 100,000 for all cities of its size group, 25,000 to 50,000. The national average was 21.9 and the New York state average, 12.7 per 100,000.

Kingston was also ahead on the basis of auto fatalities per 10,000 registered cars. Its figure was 1.4 while other cities of its size recorded an average of 3.8 deaths for every 10,000 registered cars.

The report shows that from V-J Day to the end of 1945, traffic deaths rose 36 per cent, bringing the toll for the year to 28,500 killed. In addition, about a million persons were injured. The direct economic loss, including wages, medical expenses, insurance and property damage, is estimated at $1,450,000,000.

POSSESSION OF FIREARMS

Many veterans, their relatives and friends are in illegal possession of certain types of firearms, according to the Treasury Department. The possessors of these weapons are unaware of the fact that they should be registered.

Any veteran or other person having possession of weapons should get in touch with the Internal Revenue Service, located in the Post Office Building, Newburgh, N. Y. Information and advice regarding the procedure to be followed in the registration of these weapons will be furnished.

For the benefit of the veteran as well as the welfare of the general public, possessors of firearms should secure immediately information concerning the types of weapons affected by the National Firearms Act.

Comic-strip books are to be barred from the Treasure Chest donations, gifts of books from American children to those in Europe, "because they give a false idea of American life." This is putting it very mildly.

BOOK PROFITS

The man who wrote "In His Steps", Charles Sheldon of Topeka, Kas., died the other day at an advanced age, having lived to see his book, written 40 years ago, reach 23,000,000 copies. It is a circulation record second only to that of the Bible. For not one copy did he receive any royalty, owing to a faulty copyright. Contrast this with the $145,000 paid as publishing and motion picture rights prize money recently to Elizabeth Metzger Howard, for her popular novel, "Before the Sun Goes Down", which reviewers label light and trite, though entertaining. Something is out of adjustment when such things can happen. Is the fault with book publishers, readers, authors—or just another incomprehensible Americanism?

When all the other nations have worn themselves out, China will probably be going strong.

HOMES NEEDED

Yes, this is a free country, and a man's home is his castle, and so on, but there is a situation today which shames the whole nation collectively and also shames millions of Americans individually. President Truman, touching on it the other day, might have made his appeal stronger than he did. It is the failure of the American people in general to find or make homes for war veterans and their families. This is a shame, a scandal, and any other kind of epithet fit to print.

Many homes are crowded, of course, from lack of building before and during the war years, and by the moving of so many people into the cities. But little is said of the forced movement of millions of men into the nation's armed forces, from which so many of them have not returned. That must leave considerable room in the cities and towns and around the edges, where one or two peo-

ECONOMIC REHABILITATION

Two conflicting arguments for the British loan are made by the same persons:

A. That Great Britain is broke, unable to rehabilitate her industries, to import food for her people and to develop an export trade upon which her prosperity depends;

B. That unless the United States makes this loan, Great Britain will organize an economic bloc so formidable that it will literally knock us out of foreign markets.

If A is true, B cannot be true. If B is true, A is impossible. Yet the very same men, Mr. Cleggston, Mr. Vinson, Mr. Byrnes and many others use both arguments at the same time. Apparently, in their anxiety, they are neither careful nor logical.

The best figures available, and I am sure that they are altogether short of the whole truth, show that the British have accumulated in the United States over the past five years, dollar assets amounting to $2,300,000,000 plus $700,000,000 of realizable credits in the R.E.C., totaling $3,000,000,000. The British, it seems, feel that they require $4,900,000,000 to make up shortages during the next three years. How did they accumulate that $2,300,000,000 during the war period? If they can do it in war, why not in peace?

If they have no assets anywhere else in the world, nothing anywhere in Europe, in the Argentine, in any other South American countries or in Asia or Africa, this $3,000,000,000 in the United States plus a $1,250,000,000 loan from Canada brings them close to the amount they say they need.

Mr. Vinson said in his statement to the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency:

"The success of this policy depends upon securing prompt economic reconstruction, orderly currency arrangements, and the reduction of trade barriers. World trade cannot be restored until the war-devastated countries in Europe and the Far East are again able to produce and to buy and sell. World trade cannot be restored until the currency restrictions that have plagued the world for more than a decade have been eliminated. World trade cannot be restored until the present barriers that block trade have been abolished. When the countries of the world are again producing, when they have put into effect fair currency and trade practices, world trade will expand and grow. Then the business men of all countries can secure access to world markets on fair and equal terms."

But this is true not only of Great Britain and ourselves, it is true for every country. What then is required at this moment is a total rehabilitation of world economy in the interest of the re-establishment of world trade. As it is, a line is forming before the American Export-Import Bank for unrepayable loans. Every country will soon be standing on that line. The official assurance that "the British case is unique and will not be a precedent for a loan to any other country" is not quite true.

The British case is not unique; it is universal. Every argument for a British loan, so-called, is true for France, Russia, Holland, Norway, Greece, China and every other country in Europe or Asia. Nor can anyone guarantee that it will not serve as a precedent when everybody's needs are so great. And each pleader will prove that his is a special case.

Therefore, it would seem to be more logical if the American people, the one lender, were told honestly what each country is asking and what funds are available in the United States for this purpose. I emphasize the word, honestly, because the statistical data now available is shockingly inadequate for the forming of an adequate judgment. What is really needed is an appraisal of the entire situation.

The London Economic Conference of 1933 might have done that job were it not for Roosevelt's recalcitrance—to put it kindly and gently. Bretton Woods might have done that job and, indeed, should have, but it became a dead letter in what is now called Sovietisms—mish-mash non-cooperation. There is no telling from the mountain of purposely confused testimony what really is needed to rehabilitate world trade. It would be interesting if Mr. Vinson could be got to provide an exact figure for that.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

YOUR VITAL CAPACITY

Today it is possible to have your blood pressure taken at exhibitions, side shows and other places. How qualified are the attendants to read blood pressures, and the condition of the instrument, I do not know. However, I was sorry to see what we called lung capacity machines replaced by the blood pressure instruments.

The machine for measuring the amount of air the lungs can hold is called the spirometer. Without an attendant attaching a new wooden mouthpiece, it could easily happen that various infections could be transmitted to those trying to estimate their lung or air capacity. This may be why they have been replaced by the blood pressure machines and also because blood pressure is a more up to date subject to all.

What is vital capacity?

The vital capacity is the greatest amount of air that can be breathed out after the greatest amount of air has been breathed into the lungs.

The vital capacity of the man 5 feet 7 inches in height weighing 150 pounds is about 225 cubic inches, adding or subtracting 10 cubic inches for every inch above or below 5 feet 7 inches. The vital capacity of a woman 5 feet 4 inches in height weighing 130 pounds is 180 cubic inches adding or subtracting 10 inches for every inch above or below 5 feet 4 inches.

The patient standing is instructed to take in a long deep breath slowly and then blow out all the air in his lungs. The nose should be closed and all the air breathed through the mouth into the spirometer. The test is usually made two or three times as it may take this often to learn how to do it correctly.

It should be remembered that when all the air is blown out of the lungs into the spirometer Nature still has 100 cubic inches present in the lungs to carry on the work of the body. Although this amount of residual air (resides in lungs) is always present, it is of course constantly changing being kept always pure.

Holding the breath is another way of testing the vital capacity of lungs and to some extent the heart also.

Liver and Gall Bladder

The liver does more different kinds of work than any other organ in the body. Anything that interferes with its work upsets all the body processes. The gall bladder can cause many distressing symptoms. Send ten cents, coin preferred, and a three cent stamp to The Bell Syndicate, Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y., mentioning The Kingston Daily Freeman and ask for booklet No. 119—"Liver and Gall Bladder."

ple might readily be taken into the household. It seems as if there should be a thorough canvass along this line, to clarify the situation and work out a fairer distribution of living space, until building has expanded again.

The Y's Men's Club, which had been recently organized at the Y.M.C.A., on May 26, 1926, was presented with its charter by Harold W. Bennett, lieutenant governor of the New York State District of Y's Men's Clubs, at a dinner meeting at the "Y."

The charter was accepted by Dr. Julian I. Gifford, one of the charter members of the new club.

The ceremonies were witnessed by a delegation of 38 "Y" men and their friends of Cohoes who had motored to Kingston that day for the event.

The Kingston Club was the second one to be organized by Secretary John C. Porter of the "Y," and was the first of its kind to be organized in Ulster county.

During the evening a musical program was given by the Blue Bird Orchestra composed of Kenneth N. Lowe, W. G. Scheffel, P. Rhymmer, Arthur Floyd, and Frank Hoffman.

Miss Jessie M. Cowley sang several selections. The club started with a charter membership of 25 men. The officers were John H. Haulenbeck, president; Homer Ulrich, first vice president; Thomas Rowland, second vice president; Charles W. Shultis, third vice president; Louis T. Whitney, treasurer, and Fred L. Van Deusen, secretary.

The other charter members were James Baldwin, William W. Brady, Jr., Alfred Bulky, William Clark, Floyd Cowley, Gordon Craig, Irving Davis, Lester Finley, Dr. Julian I. Gifford, Felix Katz, Ernest LeFevre, Kenneth Lowe, Norwood John C. Porter, James Scott, Fred Smith, Ray Wilbur, and Clarence Wolfersberg.

The Westminster Guild of the Rondout Presbyterian Church on May 25, 1926, presented the play "One on Dick" in the chapel of the church with great success.

Included in the cast were Jessie Cowley, Janet Phillips, Ethel Skelton, Ruth Scott, and Lillian Metcalf.

During the evening the Mandolin Girls of the Y.W.C.A. played several selections.

Letter Carrier Harry T. Wheeler died of a heart attack in his home on Washington avenue, on May 26, 1926. He was one of the original carriers who assumed duties on May 1, 1895, when the first delivery of mail was inaugurated in Kingston.

Daniel Halloran, long active in the business and political life of Kingston, died on May 22, 1926, in his 84th year. He had been a resident of Kingston for 60 years.

For many years he was engaged in the plumbing and heating business.

Cairo, March 13 (AP)—The firmest advocate of Egypt's custom of taking a siesta during the hot months is an American dentist who has practiced here for 30 years. He is big and heartily healthy. When he is complimented on the way he has endured the climate here he replies:

"There is nothing wrong with this climate if you learn to live with it. But you've got to do as the Egyptians themselves do. You've got to take a good afternoon nap."

"There are too many Americans and Englishmen who come out here and pooh-pooh the siesta habit. They are healthy, active middle-aged men and they simply refuse to take it easy when they should. While I am lying down in the afternoon enjoying a pleasant refreshing sleep they are tramping around a golf course in the hot sun or galloping around some tennis court."

"The fools! The first thing you know they keel over and die of heart attacks. I wouldn't mind it so much—everybody has got to lead his own life—but I have to go to their funerals and they always hold them in the afternoon. Then I have to miss my siesta—all because they didn't have common sense."

Cairo hotels are as crowded as those in western cities. One of the biggest ambitions of any traveler is to arrive in some city late at night and find two rooms with three baths waiting for him instead of one room with four rooms and one washbowl. It is a futile hope.

I ended up in a houseboat on the Nile. To solve the housing shortage tourist agencies have turned their river steamers into floating hotels.

They are anchored in one of the best residential districts in Cairo and in many ways are more comfortable than Cairo's famous but much more old-fashioned land based hostleries.

You have a very chummy feeling with the buried Pharaohs when you wake at 10 a. m. and lazily watch orange peels floating downstream past your window toward the Mohammedan quarter.

Each boat has a well furnished bar, lounge and dining room but its regular employees feel they are slumming. They don't like that anchored feeling.

"Next winter we will have our regular tourist cruises on the Nile," said the Swiss manager. "Then everybody will be happy again."

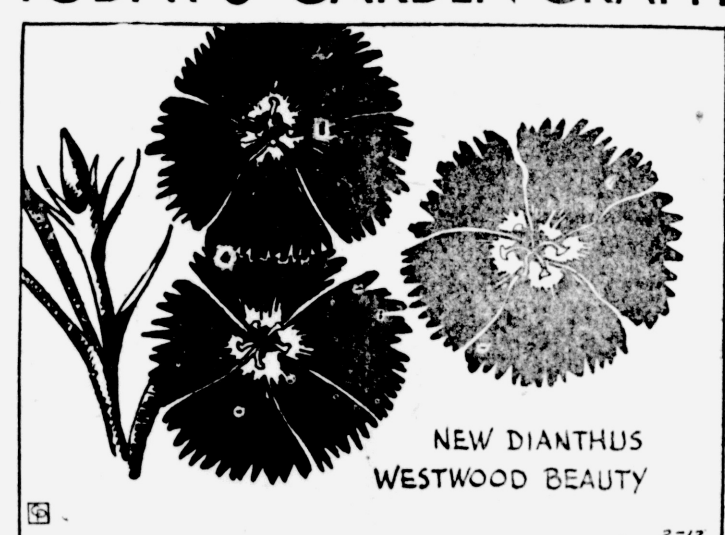

He and all his men want to get back to the old familiar ways of peace, the old ways that are so hard sometimes to find again after the tumult and uncertainty of war.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPE

New Pink for Post-War Flower Gardens

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

A NEW TYPE of garden pink, Dianthus Westwood Beauty, is ready to add its loveliness to post-war flower gardens.

It is the result of crossing the Hedgewig and Chinensis types, thus combining the large open flowers of the former with the long stems of the latter.

Officially known as Dianthus Heddensis, this new pink won honorable mention in the All-America selections for 1946.

Westwood Beauty is most similar to the largest flowered Chinensis varieties, an easily grown annual of good germination. It grows from 10 to 15 inches or more in height.

The flowers on long wire-like stems are two inches in diameter, and deeply fringed, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

The striking rich color of the flowers ranges from fiery crimson red to a very deep velvety red with occasional lighter shades.

One judge who took part in the selection contests reported no variation from shades of red in 200 plants of the new dianthus, with many plants carrying 26 to 52 flowers in good condition at one time.

This newcomer of American flower gardens is an early and continuous free-flowering bloomer, and one that stands the heat well.

Another of the fine new border pinks is Old Spice, a perpetual-flowering dianthus which is as hardy as an oak. The flowers are a rich salmon-pink and when cut last a long time.

Price Fixing Situation Could Not Be More Confused Than It Is at the Present Time

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 13—Strange things appear in the news from time to time, but none stranger this week perhaps than the announcement that, after a year's investigation, the prosecution branch of the government at Washington has secured the indictment of six companies. Making bail-bearings because they allegedly conspired to fix prices in violation of the anti-trust laws.

Maybe they did fix prices and should be prosecuted—though an indictment isn't proof of guilt—but has anyone heard of the same prosecuting branch of the government indicting any labor union this year for fixing prices or any employers for participating in such a conspiracy under the guise of collective bargaining?

In the last few weeks national labor unions have fixed 18½ cents an hour or thereabouts as the amount that wage costs must be increased. Everyone knows that the wage item directly influences the making of a price. In fact, the government and the Office of Price Administration is every day officially recognizing these wage increases as a justification for price rises.

In many industries the wages paid are the biggest factor in the making of prices. Yet when several labor unions acting together in violence and forcibly prevented the shipment of goods out of a factory—in the so-called Apex Manufacturing case—the Supreme Court majority closed its eyes to the violation of the anti-trust laws and held that this was merely a labor dispute and that the anti-trust laws didn't cover it.

Usually, when the Supreme Court goes off on a prejudiced tangent, Congress is importuned to correct the error. But not a single provision of law has been adopted to prevent violence by labor unions and they are free to stop or to strain interstate commerce at will so long as their alleged objective is to promote labor union purposes.

Congress, of course, has shown itself timid about writing anti-trust laws against any and all forms of conspiracy to fix prices. Labor unions, to be sure, have a right to demand increases in wages in their relations with particular companies, but do they have a right to form nation-wide combinations which fix the rates of pay and hence the prices of goods in one industry but in other industries that use the materials of the first industry?

There was an acknowledged consultation between the steel unions and the automobile manufacturers recently concerning the wage increases to be demanded, and specific references to price policies sought to be imposed have appeared in the press from time to time. Could even be publicly announced for that matter by the national unions involved—the Department of Justice wouldn't take notice of it.

All this does not make faith in democracy or in representative government stronger. The politicians in Congress are fond of quoting Thomas Jefferson's slogan: "Equal rights for all, special privileges for none." Yet the reverse is true today. There are no equal rights as between employers and unions and there are plenty of special privileges for unions. Even the Supreme court building in Washington, with its "justice under law" carved across its front, produces many a smile from tourists these days. Not only the spirit of the law but the letter as well is being abused by the evil influences of political favor and class bias.

Some day the employers may form labor unions, too, and demand the same rights. Only recently the National Labor Relations Board provided an entering wedge. It ruled that foremen are entitled to take concerted action as labor unions. Maybe the managers in American industry also have a right to combine as a labor union and enjoy all these private privileges and immunities against stockholders. The situation could not be worse confused than it is today, while we boast about the fairness of our democratic institutions.

LOCHINVAR STASSEN RIDES DOWN FROM THE NORTH

Like young Lochinvar riding down—this time from the north—Captain Harold A. Stassen has descended upon the key state of Indiana. Or maybe it is just the "sap" State in his way of thinking? It does have a complex of naive and outright political corruption peculiar to itself. It cherishes the grave of Wendell Wilkie. It is the state where "liberals," internationalists and do-gooders never did quite get into the inner sanctum of the Democratic Party. There, thinks Captain Stassen, "liberals" stand the best chance of raiding and taking over the Republican Party. Indiana would be the ideal state for the next would-be Republican "Boy Wonder" to start in.

Captain Stassen's itinerary shows an unaccounted lapse of several days spent in the Chicago area, strictly off the record. Rumors are that some Chicago newspaper men did get him down and found him closeted with one of the most important and yet little known background figures in recent American politics. This is the figure of attorney Harry Monsky, since 1936 President of the B'nai B'rith, the most politically-minded and far the most powerful organization in American Jewry. The influence of Mr. Monsky of Omaha goes far beyond the actual select membership of the B'nai B'rith. This organization cannot be entered by the frivolous or those untied or untested, and its 60,000 or so members are men sufficiently energetic and influential to be responsible for at least twenty times that number of votes. More than a million votes might turn a critical national election. However, Mr. Monsky has become almost unofficial national coordinator of our great charitable and welfare organizations. Who's Who in America lists him on the Board of Directors of just about every great worthwhile national organization: from Boys Town to Jewish National Welfare and from the Red Cross to the Boys Scouts.

Without question, Mr. Monsky is one of the most powerful "back ground" figures in the United States. Samuel Rosenman was New York state head of the B'nai B'rith under Harry Monsky when Rosenman became a determinative influence in the career of that ambitious and handsome young man, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. The association was the source of great political strength for Mr. Roosevelt—in fact, this association is credited with making it possible for Mr. Roosevelt once more to aspire to presidential honors after Al Smith had said Franklin should stop right where he was.

In any case, rumors are that Captain Stassen, another handsome, tall young man, frankly bitten by the presidential bug and pledged to the same basic tenets of vague liberalism and internationalism which paid off so well for Mr. Roosevelt, did closet himself with Mr. Monsky in Chicago. The association would be quite natural, and certainly there is nothing scandalous about it. After his Chicago visit, Captain Stassen addressed the students at "notable liberal" Indiana State University. He got photographed shaking hands with the co-ed daughter of Republican Governor Gates. He spent much time studying the unusual and, to him, promising situation of Indiana's Congressmen LaFollette—who gets elected on a Republican ticket with the support of the P.A.C. and the Left Wing (even so far Left as the Communists). Stassen made some striking statements in Indiana in favor of "One World" and American loans to Britain, Russia and apparently all other needy nations. At the same time, he indicated a drastic drift to the British side in the British-Russian case should reach an actual threat of war between these two great imperialist powers (a typical Navy view, acquired by Stassen).

Talk around Indianapolis following the Stassen visit is that the handsome young Captain has been trying to flatter Indiana's Republican Governor Gates and to win him to run with him, for vice president, on the 1948 ticket. This Governor Gates recently coined the plagiarized, "Truman fiddles while Byrnes roams!"

Young Men's Republican Clubs are inclined to go for Harold Stassen. His personal followers are reaching out for returned veterans who are deeply prejudiced against "old line politics," without being able to define either "old line" or "new line" and without actually knowing anything intimate about former Governor Stassen and his actual political record in Minnesota. Stassen's hope of reaching the White House rests upon such a following of these more enthusiastic than informed young men plus the Left Wingers who are now standing on the rail of Harry Truman's ship, ready to abandon her before she sinks and make the leap to the Republican deck.

Some people see the ghost of Wilkie rising from his Indiana grave but maybe it is just a pre-drawn mist that will dissipate in the heat of the real campaign.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(P) World Traveler

Bern, March 13—This is an interesting story, for we must get ahead with our job of globetrotting.

We've had a grand time, for you've been mighty fine to us and we are appreciative. Our feelings about you were well expressed by a Yankee sergeant with whom we were chatting last night—one of the 200,000 American soldiers who've been fortunate enough to get leave for a brief tour of the Alps. When we asked him how he liked it here, he raised his right hand and with shining eyes declared:

"It's 100 per cent—hospitality, fine people, good food, wonderful scenery. What a change from Germany."

Well, that's the way we feel about you too, Switzerland. You're 100 per cent.

There are many things we like about your glorious little state perched among the Alps, but I think we must place first your sturdy character and fine principles.

It's good to meet folk who think right and live right. I guess maybe it would be difficult to have mean thoughts up here on the peaks so close to heaven.

We like the way you cling to traditions and heirlooms. You're modern and yet live in a setting of days gone by—combining the old with the new so charmingly that the blend is perfect.

Mrs. Mack and I have spent hours among historic buildings which have grown gray from the centuries. We've been fascinated by that huge, 300-year-old clock in the stone tower of Bern's ancient city gate—still faithfully recording the seconds, minutes, hours, days and months while the life-size figure of a man strikes the hours with mighty swings of his hammer.

And I don't know how many times we've stopped to look at the quaint statue of the fat ogre about to swallow a baby, with other squirming youngsters in a bag ready to follow. They say mothers of days long past used to warn naughty children that the ogre would get them if they weren't good. I tried that with Mrs. Mack but she only snickered and said she didn't believe in ogres.

Some folk are inclined to brush aside traditions and heirlooms as too much out of date to be useful. But our observation is that these links with the past are part of the fiber of a nation.

We've had a memorable experience here, but we must be going. It's so long for now, Switzerland. Good luck, we'll be seeing you.

U.N.O. Is Bursting Out Over---N. Y.
Nobody Knows Where It Will Settle

By ARLENE WOLF

(P) Newsfeatures Writer

New York, March 13 (P)—The U.N.O. is busting out all over—all over New York. For five months, Gothamites have watched a game of put-and-take with world capital sites—temporary sites, interim sites, permanent sites, sites for the Security Council and sites for the General Assembly.

Even now that the temporary (not to be confused with interim, which is temporarily permanent) headquarters of Hunter College, the city is still in a tizzy. Not that New York confuses easily. It can take a tugboat strike and a city-wide shutdown in stride.

It handled meatless Tuesdays and Fridays with great savoir faire. It can put up even with not knowing where its next pound of butter is coming from. But a five-month housing puzzle is too much.

Especially for a city that's popping its own population seams without any help from the new world capital.

Where all the confusion is going to end, nobody knows. Probably even the U.N.O. doesn't know. But it's easy to see where it began.

Gotham put its two cents in long before the U. S. was selected as the U.N.O. home, and even longer before the need of both a temporary and a permanent site was known.

That was back in November of last year, when the city offered the old World's Fair site in Flushing park as a permanent home for the world capital. At the time, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Poughkeepsie, Black Hills, the Hawaiian Islands and sundry other spots were also in the bidding. All this eagerness led Yugoslavian delegate Stoyan Gavrilovic to say it ought to be pretty easy to find a spot for the U.N.O. in the U. S.

Comes the Confusion
It wasn't until the middle of February that New York was selected definitely as U.N.O. temporary home, but the organization previously was offered such housing come-ons as Manhattan Center (a large hall down on 34th St.), the City Center, (formerly the Mecca Temple, and now the municipal cultural hub of the city), and the Sperry Gyroscope plant out on Long Island. No one could keep track of what part of the U.N.O. was supposed to go where, but nobody minded too much. New Yorkers were pleased that they could offer such a selection of housing facilities.

After the city snatched the brass ring on the U.N.O. merry-go-round, there was talk about the famous old Whitehall Reid Mansion at 51st street taking care of the Security Council. Paired with this was a suggestion to put the 5,000-odd person General Assembly meeting in the fall in the Center Theater in Rockefeller Center, where an annual show holds forth.

Nelson Rockefeller offered the theater to the U.N.O. for free, but it later developed that the U.N.O. might have to pay the cost of the show-salaries for stagehands, musicians, skaters, electricians, etc., which added up to a potential $35,000 a week.

Before New Yorkers got used to that idea, the Empire State building was mentioned as a working spot for the Secretariat. There was a big "if" about that too—21 government agencies on the premises which would have to be moved out if the Empire State was to be used. By February 21, Grover Whalen was understandably moved to enlarge his committee on U.N.O. arrangements.

Three days later, the committee on the U.N.O. site was hovering over Hunter College's gymnasium building in the Bronx. Someone pointed out that the Kingsbridge Armory right around the corner from the college would be fine for the General Assembly. On subways, buses, over dinner tables and breakfast coffee, subway-wise New Yorkers speculated on how the General Assembly ever would make its collective way up to the Bronx. Bronxites shook their heads over the lack of eating facilities in the neighborhood.

Meanwhile, former Mayor LaGuardia suggested the Queens City Hall. Someone else thought an annex of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. building in the 20's was made to order for the U.N.O. Borough President James Lyons of the Bronx rooted for a long-time stay at Hunter College. Hunter students protested. Up in Greenwich, Conn., the inhabitants who faced displacement if the permanent U.N.O. home were in their territory did some protesting of their own. New York was bewildered.

The bewildering wasn't lessened a bit when the news came out that the temporary home of the U.N.O. might turn into a sort of permanent temporary home until the permanent home (in the New York-Connecticut area) was ready. Three to five years in the Bronx was one prophecy for the world capital. At the same time, the understanding was that the Bronx lease ran only until May 15, and that the lease was for two college buildings and a cafeteria instead of just the gymnasium building.

The meeting place of the General Assembly still is up in the air.

til the permanent home (in the New York-Connecticut area) was ready. Three to five years in the Bronx was one prophecy for the world capital. At the same time, the understanding was that the Bronx lease ran only until May 15, and that the lease was for two college buildings and a cafeteria instead of just the gymnasium building.

The meeting place of the General Assembly still is up in the air.

Ordinance Fails For Street Repair

The streets until such a measure can be approved by the council, and it is likely that a special meeting will be called to act on the ordinance, provided it is legal to hold a special meeting for that purpose.

The question of legality of holding a special meeting will be investigated by Corporation Counsel Arthur B. Ewig.

The majority report of the finance, ways and means committee, signed by Alderman Simpson and Alderman Joseph Amato, favored adoption of the ordinance.

The minority report of Alderman Roth, third member of the committee, reads as follows:

"A communication of the mayor, dated March 1, 1946, and of the superintendent of public works, dated February 14, 1946, and of a resolution adopted by the Board of Public Works on February 15, 1946, by all of which it is now requested that the Common Council authorize street improvements at an estimated cost of $100,000 and the issuance of bonds in the amount of $95,000, have been referred to your committee.

"Wants Definite Information. The minority party in the Common Council, of which I am a member, is pledged to aid in the reconstruction of Kingston's streets, which are in a deplorable condition, and will cooperate to the end that our city might have better streets.

"However, before your honorable body acts in the matter it should have definite information formally transmitted to it as to just what streets it is proposed to reconstruct. At the present time your committee is not formally in possession of this information. Information should also be supplied as to specific costs of the various street improvements proposed to be made.

"It is therefore recommended that:

1. Information be formally furnished as to the streets proposed to be affected and the nature of improvements to be made; and

2. Definite estimates of the costs of work to be done on each of the affected streets be furnished.

"Spirited Debate. Alderman Thomas F. Coughlin, of the Seventh Ward, led the Democratic attack on the minority report. He said that it was possible to give a rough estimate of the cost of repairing each street, but if such a procedure was taken it would delay the street program.

He contended that if the superintendent of the Board of Public Works should estimate, for instance, the cost of rebuilding Broadway at $10,000 and only $7,000 was used in the work that the remaining $3,000 could not be diverted for work on any other street.

On the other hand, he said, if the estimated $10,000 was exceeded, and it actually cost $12,000 to $13,000 where was the extra money to be derived.

Alderman Coughlin pointed out the deplorable condition of the streets, and said that in Ernest Steuding the city had a capable man who knows his job and is not going to waste any of the money appropriated for the street program.

Alderman Roth in reply said that the council could not legally grant a blanket resolution, and that it was true that if any money was saved on the construction of any particular street, the amount saved would go to help pay for the bond issue.

In reply, Alderman Coughlin said he did not agree with Alderman Roth as there were too many streets that needed repairs, and he believed that if money was saved on some streets the amount saved should be used in repairing other streets.

"Not Legal" Said Roth. "That's just the point," said Alderman Roth, "the council cannot authorize a bond issue for maintenance or repairs of streets, but only for capital improvements."

Alderman Coughlin said he had a copy of a list of streets proposed to be rebuilt together with the estimates, and that a list had been submitted to Alderman Roth. The alderman from the Seventh Ward read the list.

"It is true that I had such a list furnished me," said Alderman Roth, "but that list has never been formally presented to the Common Council."

He added, "I am not trying to delay street work that is absolutely necessary. We all know that the streets are in deplorable condition, but to make such an ordinance legal it is required that the proceeds from a bond issue be used only for capital improvements, and not for repairs or maintenance of streets."

"A Drop in the Bucket." Following the adjournment of the council a conference was held between Alderman Roth, President Schwenk, Corporation Counsel Arthur B. Ewig and City Clerk Leo P. Fennelly, at which Alderman Roth said he was willing to "go along with the majority members of the finance, ways and means committee, provided a list of streets and the estimated costs be included in the majority report."

Alderman Roth said that there was no question but it would require more than $100,000 to place the streets in condition, and that the amount asked for was but a drop in the bucket.

It was finally decided that the corporation counsel would ascertain if it was legal to adopt an ordinance authorizing a bond issue at a special meeting.

If so, undoubtedly a special meeting will be called to act upon the defeated ordinance.

Fraulein Visits With U. S. Officers Are Curbed

Frankfurt, March 13 (AP)—In a move to restrict visits by German girls to the U. S. Army Headquarters compound, army authorities today imposed a 10 p. m. curfew, effective tonight, at which time all Germans must be out of the area.

Officials said the curfew order came from "higher headquarters." It was not clear whether the measure had been proposed by the War Department, which recently demanded an explanation of reports that frauleins were permitted to live in the compound with American officers and civilians.

The composer Jean Philippe Rameau was comparatively unknown until his 40th year.

Highest Pay, Short Hours Are Coal Miners' Demands

Washington, March 13 (AP)—John L. Lewis left for the coal industry to puzzle over today a wage demand which specified only the highest pay and shortest hours his 400,000 soft coal miners can get.

Firm, but far from his usual dramatic self, Lewis caught operators by surprise at yesterday's opening session of the bituminous coal wage conference at which the industry had expected to hear a concrete pay boost proposal.

Instead, Lewis laid down nine generalized demands, in which he said the United Mine Workers want a new peacetime contract adjusting a variety of problems, including "an increase of wages and reduction of daily and weekly working hours."

A U.M.W. spokesman said the union's bargaining committee would meet industry negotiators with instructions to base the wage issue on shorter hours and job classification differentials — "and bargain the best increase they can get."

Actual negotiations may not get underway until next week. Another session of the wage conference was set for today, but it was to be devoted to union arguments in support of the general demands.

Legislative Roundup

By HENRY LEADER

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Death of the Young bill, characterized by the C.I.O. as "vicious" anti-union legislation, today reflected the determination of Governor Dewey's administration to enter the gubernatorial election campaign with a "clean" labor record.

The Governor's position, well understood by the Republican legislative leaders, is that measures patently intended to cripple the legitimate powers of organized labor should be killed.

The Young bill was placed in that category last night by the state C.I.O. The measure would make a strike illegal unless it were voted in secret ballot by a majority of the union members affected.

It is reported eager to display it when he campaigns for re-election six months hence.

In a joint statement, State C.I.O. President Louis Hollander and Secretary-Treasurer Harold J. Garbo branded the Young bill "even more vicious than the Case bill now pending in Congress."

They described Young as "a man who is constantly trying to set the clock back." His bill, they insisted, "would destroy all the gains the workers have made in our state."

Young said the measure was in the Senate Labor Committee and would stay there. He declared he had introduced it "only for the purpose of discussion."

Other Legislative developments: 1. One of Mayor William O'Dwyer's bills permitting New York city to levy new taxes totaling $78,500,000 a year for the next four years appeared headed toward defeat. 2. Alterations were being made in a proposed constitutional amendment to establish a special court to consider removal of judges for cause or for mental or physical inability to serve.

3. The Pillion bill to name the New York State Thruway the "Memorial Freeway" was withdrawn in the Assembly.

The Jap Version

Tokyo, March 13 (AP)—Former Premier Hideki Tojo's defense against war crimes charges will be conducted "to obtain the truth about the origins of" the Pacific war, his Japanese attorneys said today. Dr. Ichiro Kiyose and Tokutomi Shibusawa promised they would "cooperate fully with the prosecution" in seeking the truth. Date of the trial has not been set.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 13, 1946

TRAFFIC DEATHS

Kingston was a safer city for pedestrian and motorist during 1945 than most other cities of its size in the country, according to data compiled by the National Safety Council.

Traffic fatalities in the city amounted to 4.0 per 100,000 population, comparing favorably with a rate of 10.3 per 100,000 for all cities of its size group, 25,000 to 50,000. The national average was 21.9 and the New York state average, 12.7 per 100,000.

Kingston was also ahead on the basis of auto fatalities per 10,000 registered cars. Its figure was 1.4 while other cities of its size recorded an average of 3.8 deaths for every 10,000 registered cars.

The report shows that from V-J Day to the end of 1945, traffic deaths rose 36 per cent, bringing the toll for the year to 28,500 killed. In addition, about a million persons were injured. The direct economic loss, including wages, medical expenses, insurance and property damage, is estimated at $1,450,000,000.

POSSESSION OF FIREARMS

Many veterans, their relatives and friends are in illegal possession of certain types of firearms, according to the Treasury Department. The possessors of these weapons are unaware of the fact that they should be registered.

Any veteran or other person having possession of weapons should get in touch with the Internal Revenue Service, located in the Post Office Building, Newburgh, N. Y. Information and advice regarding the procedure to be followed in the registration of these weapons will be furnished.

For the benefit of the veteran as well as the welfare of the general public, possessors of firearms should secure immediately information concerning the types of weapons affected by the National Firearms Act.

Comic-strip books are to be barred from the Treasure Chest donations, gifts of books from American children to those in Europe, "because they give a false idea of American life." This is putting it very mildly.

BOOK PROFITS

The man who wrote "In His Steps", Charles Sheldon of Topeka, Kas., died the other day at an advanced age, having lived to see his book, written 40 years ago, reach 23,000,000 copies. It is a circulation record second only to that of the Bible. For not one copy did he receive any royalty, owing to a faulty copyright. Contrast this with the $145,000 paid as publishing and motion picture rights prize money recently to Elizabeth Metzger Howard, for her popular novel, "Before the Sun Goes Down", which reviewers label light and trite, though entertaining.

Something is out of adjustment when such things can happen. Is the fault with book publishers, readers, authors—or just another incomprehensible Americanism?

When all the other nations have worn themselves out, China will probably be going strong.

HOMES NEEDED

Yes, this is a free country, and a man's home is his castle, and so on, but there is a situation today which shames the whole nation collectively and also shames millions of Americans individually. President Truman, touching on it the other day, might have made his appeal stronger than he did.

It is the failure of the American people in general to find or make homes for war veterans and their families. This is a shame, a scandal, and any other kind of epithet fit to print.

Many homes are crowded, of course, from lack of building before and during the war years, and by the moving of so many people into the cities. But little is said of the forced movement of millions of men into the nation's armed forces, from which so many of them have not returned. That must leave considerable room in the cities and towns and around the edges, where one or two people

Two conflicting arguments for the British loan are made by the same persons:

A. That Great Britain is broke, unable to rehabilitate her industries, to import food for her people and to develop an export trade upon which her prosperity depends;

B. That unless the United States makes this loan, Great Britain will organize an economic bloc so formidable that it will literally knock us out of foreign markets.

If A is true, B cannot be true. If B is true, A is impossible. Yet the very same men, Mr. Clayton, Mr. Vinson, Mr. Byrnes and many others use both arguments at the same time. Apparently, in their anxiety, they are neither careful nor logical.

The best figures available, and I am sure that they are altogether short of the whole truth, show that the British have accumulated in the United States over the past five years, dollar assets amounting to $2,300,000,000, plus $700,000,000 of realizable credits in the R.F.C., totaling $3,000,000,000. The British, it seems, feel that they require $4,900,000,000 to make up shortages during the next three years. How did they accumulate that $2,300,000,000 during the war period? If they can do it in war, why not in peace?

If they have no assets anywhere else in the world, nothing anywhere in Europe, in the Argentine, in any other South American countries or in Asia or Africa, this $3,000,000,000 in the United States plus a $1,250,000,000 loan from Canada brings them close to the amount they say they need.

Mr. Vinson said in his statement to the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency:

"The success of this policy depends upon securing prompt economic reconstruction, orderly currency arrangements, and the reduction of trade barriers. World trade cannot be restored until the war-devastated countries in Europe and the Far East are again able to produce, and to buy and sell. World trade cannot be restored until the currency restrictions that have plagued the world for more than a decade have been eliminated. World trade cannot be restored until the present barriers that block trade have been abolished. When the countries of the world are again producing, when they have put into effect fair currency and trade practices, world trade will expand and grow. Then the business men of all countries can secure access to world markets on fair and equal terms."

But this is true not only of Great Britain and ourselves; it is true for every country. What then is required at this moment is a total rehabilitation of world economy in the interest of the re-establishment of world trade. As it is, a line is forming before the American Export-Import Bank for unrepayable loans. Every country will soon be standing at that line. The official assurance that "the British case is unique and will not be a precedent for a loan to any other country" is not quite true. The British case is not unique; it is universal. Every argument for a British loan, so-called, is true for France, Russia, Holland, Norway, Greece, China and every other country in Europe or Asia. Nor can anyone guarantee that it will not serve as a precedent when everybody's needs are so great. And each pleader will prove that his is a special case.

Therefore, it would seem to be more logical if the American people, the one lender, were told honestly what each country is asking and what funds are available in the United States for this purpose. I emphasize the word, honestly, because the statistical data now available is shockingly inadequate for the forming of an adequate judgment. What is really needed is an appraisal of the entire situation.

The London Economic Conference of 1933 might have done that job were it not for Mr. Roosevelt's recalcitrance—to put it kindly and gently. Bretton Woods might have done that job and, indeed, should have, but it became embroiled in what must now be called Sovietisms—mushy non-cooperation. There is no telling from the mountain of purposely confused testimony what really is needed to rehabilitate world trade. It would be interesting if Mr. Vinson could be got to provide an exact figure for that.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

YOUR VITAL CAPACITY

Today it is possible to have your blood pressure taken at exhibitions, state shows and other places. How qualified are the attendants to read blood pressures, and the condition of the instrument, I do not know. However, I was sorry to see what we called lung capacity machines replaced by the blood pressure instruments.

The machine for measuring the amount of air the lungs can hold is called the spirometer. Without an attendant attaching a new wooden mouth piece or sterilizing a permanent glass mouthpiece, it could easily happen that various infections could be transmitted to those trying to estimate their lung or air capacity. This may be why they have been replaced by the blood pressure machines and also because blood pressure is a more up to date subject to us all.

What is vital capacity?

The vital capacity is the greatest amount of air that can be breathed out after the greatest amount of air has been breathed into the lungs.

The vital capacity of the man 5 feet 7 inches in height weighing 150 pounds is about 225 cubic inches, adding or subtracting 10 cubic inches for every inch above or below 5 feet 7 inches. The vital capacity of a woman 5 feet 4 inches in height weighing 130 pounds is 180 cubic inches adding or subtracting 10 inches for every inch above or below 5 feet 4 inches.

The patient standing is instructed to take in a long deep breath slowly and then blow out all the air in his lungs. The nose should be closed and all the air breathed through the mouth into the spirometer. The test is usually made two or three times as it may take this often to learn how to do it correctly.

It should be remembered that when all the air is blown out of the lungs into the spirometer Nature still has 100 cubic inches present in the lungs to carry on the work of the body. Although this amount of residual air resides in lungs is always present, it is of course constantly changing being kept always pure.

Holding the breath is another way of testing the vital capacity of lungs and to some extent the heart also.

Liver and Gall Bladder
The liver does more different kinds of work than any other organ in the body. Anything that interferes with its work upsets all the body processes. The gall bladder can cause many distressing symptoms. Send ten cents in plain paper for a 10-cent stamp to The Bell Syndicate, Box 19, Station G, New York 19, N. Y., mentioning The Kingston Daily Freeman and ask for booklet No. 119—"Liver and Gall Bladder."

ple might readily be taken into the household. It seems as if there should be a thorough canvass along this line, to clarify the situation and work out a fairer distribution of living space, until building has expanded again.

Don't Look Now—

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The Y's Men's Club, which had been recently organized at the Y.M.C.A. on May 26, 1926, was presented with its charter by Harold W. Bennett, lieutenant governor of the New York State District of Y's Men's Clubs, at a dinner meeting at the "Y."

The charter was accepted by Dr. Julian I. Gifford, one of the charter members of the new club. The ceremonies were witnessed by a delegation of 38 "Y" men and their friends of Cohoes who had motored to Kingston that day for the event.

The Kingston Club was the second one to be organized by Secretary John C. Power of the "Y," and was the first of its kind to be organized in Ulster county.

During the evening a musical program was given by the Blue Bird Orchestra composed of Kenneth N. Lowe, W. G. Scheffel, P. Rymer, Arthur Floyd, and Frank Hoffman.

Miss Jessie M. Cowley gave general selections.

The club started with a charter membership of 25 men. The officers were John H. Haulenbeck, president; Homer Bruch, first vice president; Thomas Rowland, second vice president; Charles W. Shultz, third vice president; Louis T. Whitney, treasurer; and Fred L. Van Dusen, secretary.

The other charter members were James Baldwin, William W. Brady, J. Alfred Buley, William Clark, Floyd Cowley, Gordon Craig, Irving Davis, Lester Finley, Dr. Julian I. Gifford, Felix Katz, Ernest LeFevre, Kenneth Lowe, George Matthews, Wilson Norwood, John C. Porter, James Scott, Fred Smith, Ray Wilbur, and Clarence Wolfersteig.

The Westminster Guild of the Round Presbyterian Church on May 25, 1926, presented the play "One on Dick" in the chapel of the church with great success.

Included in the cast were Jesse Cowley, Janet Phillips, Ethel Skelton, Ruth Scott, and Lillian Metcalf.

During the evening the Mandolin Girls of the Y.W.C.A. played several selections.

Letter Carrier Harry T. Wheeler died of a heart attack in his home on Washington avenue, on May 26, 1926. He was one of the original carriers who assumed duties on May 1, 1895, when the free delivery of mail was inaugurated in Kingston.

Daniel Halloran, long active in the business and political life of Kingston, died on May 22, 1926, in his 84th year. He had been a resident of Kingston for 60 years.

For many years he was engaged in the printing and bookbinding business on Broadway, and later resided to 37 East Strand where he was engaged in business for 48 years.

Mr. Halloran was a staunch Democrat and long active in local Democratic party councils. He had served as an alderman in the Common Council, and was member of the Board of Education at the time the present Kingston High School was built.

For years he was an active member of St. Peter's Church on Wurts street. He was a member of the board of directors of the Homesteaders' Cooperative Savings and Loan Association downtown.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

Cairo, March 13 (AP)—The firmest advocate of Egypt's custom of taking a siesta during the hot months is an American dentist who has practiced here for 30 years. He is big and heartily healthy. When he is complimented on the way he has endured the climate here he replies:

"There is nothing wrong with this climate if you learn to live with it. But you've got to do as the Egyptians themselves do. You've got to take a good afternoon nap."

"There are too many Americans and Englishmen who come out here and pooh-pooh the siesta habit. They are healthy, active middle-aged men and they simply refuse to take it easy when they should. While I am lying down in the afternoon enjoying a pleasant refreshing sleep they are tramping around a self-imposed hell."

"Sun or galloping around some tennis court."

"The fools! The first thing you know they feel over and die of heart attacks. I wouldn't mind it so much—everybody has got to lead his own life—but I have to go to their funerals and they always hold them in the afternoon. Then I have to miss my siesta—all because they didn't have common sense."

Cairo hotels are as crowded as those in western cities. One of the biggest ambitions of any traveler is to arrive in some city late at night and find two rooms with three baths waiting for him instead of one room with four rooms and one washroom. It is a futile hope.

I ended up in a houseboat on the Nile. To solve the housing shortage tourist agencies have turned their river steamers into floating hotels.

They are anchored in one of the best residential districts in Cairo and in many ways are more comfortable than Cairo's famous but much more old-fashioned land-based hostleries.

You have a very chummy feeling with the hatted tourabouts when you wake at 11 a. m. and lazily watch orange peels floating downstream past your window toward the Mediterranean.

Each boat has a well furnished bar, lounge and dining room but its regular employees feel they are slumming. They don't like that anchored feeling.

Next morning, when the regular tourist cruises on the Nile," said the Swiss manager. "Then everybody will be happy again."

He and all his men want to get back to the old familiar ways of peace, the old ways that are so hard sometimes to find again after the tumult and uncertainty of war.

In Bombay there is a sign that seems to link completely the worlds of medieval and modern art. It reads: "Restaurant and Van Dykes. Limited. Artists and photographers, amateur work executed, passport photos taken."

Price Fixing Situation Could Not Be More Confused Than It Is at the Present Time

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 13—Strange things appear in the news from time to time, but none stranger this week perhaps than the announcement that, after a year's investigation, the prosecution branch of the government at Washington has secured the indictment of six companies. Making ball-bearings because they allegedly conspired to fix prices in violation of the anti-trust laws.

Maybe they did fix prices, and should be prosecuted, though an indictment isn't proof of guilt, but has anyone heard of the same prosecuting branch of the government indicting any labor union this year for fixing prices or any employers for participating in such a conspiracy under the guise of collective bargaining?

In the last few weeks national labor unions have fixed 18½ cents an hour or thereabouts as the amount that wage costs must be increased. Everyone knows that the wage item directly influences the making of a price. In fact, the government itself has conceded this and the Office of Price Administration is every day officially recognizing these wage increases as a justification for price rises.

In many industries the wages paid are the biggest factor in the making of prices. Yet when several labor unions acting together engage in a nation-wide movement to get an 18½-cent increase per hour which results in the fixing of prices, the prosecuting branch of the government is silent and inactive. One reason given is that the anti-trust laws do not cover such cases. This is a fallacy. What is really meant is that the Supreme Court of the United States, being "packed" with judges with preconceived notions of how legislation should be written, have construed the anti-trust laws as immunizing labor unions from such laws. Even when a labor union engaged in violence and forcibly prevented the shipment of goods out of a factory—in the so-called Apex Manufacturing case—the Supreme Court majority closed its eyes to the violation of the anti-trust laws and held that this was merely a labor dispute and that the anti-trust laws didn't cover it.

Usually when the Supreme Court goes off on a prejudiced tangent, Congress is importuned to correct the error. But not a single provision of law has been adopted to prevent violence by labor unions.

Some day the employers may form labor unions, too, and demand the same rights. Only recently the National Labor Relations Board provided an entering wedge. It ruled that foremen are entitled to take concerted action as labor unions. Maybe the managers in American industry also have a right to combine as a labor union and enjoy all these privileges and immunities against stockholders. The situation could not be worse confused than it is today, while we hoist abroad about the fairness of our democratic institutions.

War Veteran Speaks To St. Paul's Couples

The monthly meeting of the Couples' Club of St. Paul's Lutheran Church was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dixon, 74 Foxhall avenue. A constitution for the new club was presented and adopted.

The speaker of the evening was Robert Dixon who gave an account of several trophies he had brought back with him from the war. He displayed a German field glass, compass, a Walther 32 caliber automatic, several German bayonets, as well as an American 75 millimeter shell, a 57 millimeter shell, and a 60 millimeter mortar shell. Mr. Dixon served as a leader of a mortar squad of the 8th Armored Division of the 80th Tank Battalion. He served in France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Austria and Germany and at the time of the European victory he was at Goslar, Germany.

After the display and entertainment, refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trodler, 53 Roosevelt avenue.

'La Gioconda' Is Opera For Saturday Afternoon

New York, March 13—Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," a tale of the days of the Inquisition in Venice, will be the Metropolitan Opera broadcast of Saturday, beginning at 2 p. m. over WJZ-ABC. Intermission features will include the weekly Opera News on the Air, with Boris Goldovsky, Opera Quiz, with Olin Downes as quizmaster and the Opera Round Table.

The four-act score will have Zinka Milanov in the title role, Richard Tucker as Enzo Grimaldo, Margaret Harshaw as La Cica, Rise Stevens as Laura, Leonard Warren as the infamous Barnaba and Giacomo Vaghi as Alvise. Other supporting roles include Wellington Ezekiel, Richard Manning, Osie Hawkins, William Hargrave, John Baker and Lodovico Oliviero.

"La Gioconda" with its familiar "Dance of the Hours," the "Heaven and Sea" aria, and the "Suicide" aria, was restored to the Metropolitan's repertoire last season. It was first produced at La Scala in Milan in 1876 and heard at the Metropolitan for the first time in 1883 with Christine Nilsson in the title role. Among other interpreters was Rosa Ponselle.

Synagogue News

Rabbi Harold Schechter of Congregation Agudas Achim, will present a "Purim" broadcast over his Thursday night broadcast on the "Call of Israel" program at 7:30 over Station WKNY.

The Jewish Holiday of Purim (the Feast of Lots) will be this Sunday, March 17. The holiday is always celebrated on the 14th day of the Jewish month of Adar with the reading of "The Megillah" the Biblical story of Queen Esther. It is read in the synagogue on the eve of Purim, Saturday night at 7:30, and also on the morning thereof, Sunday at 8:30.

Of all the Jewish holidays, Purim alone is the product of Jewish life in the Diaspora. It makes a strong appeal to the Jewish people because it deals with a problem old in origin but ever new in application. It symbolizes to the Jewish nation the hope that the spirit of bigotry and discrimination will someday disappear from the hearts of all men... and that liberty, justice and equality become the guiding light for all civilization.

The holiday is also celebrated in a real festive manner. Purim Plays are put on by all the Hebrew schools depicting the history of Purim, it is likewise the custom to send gifts to one another on this holiday. Special gifts are also given to all the poor and needy. A special three-cornered cookie called "Hamantaschen" is eaten on this day. The holiday of Purim is preceded by "Tanit Esther" the fast of Esther Thursday, March 14.

Junior Hadassah Will Hold Purim Festival

Kingston Teachers Hear State Association Workers Discuss Program at Local Dinner

Miss Gladys Newell, field worker of the New York State Teachers Association, was guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the local association at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Tuesday evening, Miss Martha Barnett, president of the Kingston Teachers Association, presided. Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools and Mrs. Laidlaw Bernard Feeney, president of the board of education, and Mrs. Feeney attended along with approximately 70 Kingston teachers. This is the first year that a state worker has spoken to the local group.

Miss Newell gave a stimulating talk. Stressing the past accomplishments of the state teachers association she listed better state aid for schools; higher professional standards; tenure for both city and village teachers; the establishment of a retirement system; and minimum salary laws.

Another phase of her talk dealt with present salary of $1600 with eight increments. She stressed the need for higher salaries to encourage some of the better students to enter the profession. As she said, in the words of one student considering another profession in preference to teaching, "You can't eat idealism." Because of the present wage scale, Miss Newell predicted a shortage of teachers in 1950.

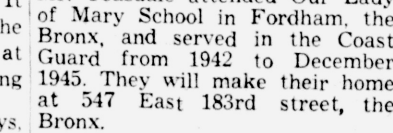

Other items being considered this year are a cost-of-living adjustment bill; state aid to central schools; an amendment to the retirement act allowing teachers to pay-up for years of prior service and an increase of state scholarships to $350 instead of $100. Miss Newell concluded by emphasizing the program a local association could adopt to develop a better local group public relations with the community; make more frequent use of the press; bring in speakers of note; and support as a unit worthy organizations. For development of valuable services to the group members she suggested credit unions, group insurance and the formation of an active legislative committee and an active social program, as well as, a good cultural and professional program.

She closed with the idea that local groups should take an intelligent, aggressive span on problems concerning the profession and work for unity of national, state and local teachers associations.

Following Miss Newell's talk there was an interesting question period during which the speaker was asked to explain in more detail some of the proposed projects.

Bills Proposed at Albany

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Salary increases of $8,000 a year for the state comptroller and attorney general and $5,000 for the commissioner of education are proposed by Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston Republican.

The Senate Rules Committee introduced bills yesterday at Wicks' request to fix the three officials' salaries at $20,000 a year—$5,000 more than federal cabinet members.

A minute investigation into the activities of administrative departments of the state government was endorsed by the Senate, meanwhile, and legislative action was completed on measures to step up state aid for low-cost housing.

Present salaries of the comptroller and attorney general, both elective offices, are $12,000. The commissioner of education, selected by the Board of Regents, receives $15,000.

Rules committees must sponsor all bills, individual introduction having been suspended for the remainder of the session.

The proposed probe of government departments also was sponsored by Wicks, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. The measure, which now goes to the Assembly for action, carries a $75,000 appropriation. "Teeth would be put into grand jury investigations of public officials, under terms of another bill introduced by the Senate Rules Committee. The measure was requested by Senator Pliny B. Williamson, Yonkers Republican and chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee."

The bill provides that any public officer who refuses to sign a waiver of immunity when called to testify before a grand jury on his own conduct, or refuses to answer relevant questions, shall be prohibited from holding any other public office.

Extension of the Postwar Public Works Planning Commission for another year was approved by the Assembly 90 to 50 over solid Democratic opposition. The measure went to the governor for expected approval.

The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a bill providing for the $3,743,000 purchase of a building at 270 Broadway, New York city, for use as state offices.

Bills were introduced by the Assembly Rules Committee authorizing Middletown, Jamestown, Lockport, North Tonawanda, White Plains and Fulton to constitute themselves as city public welfare districts.

Red Cross Production Unit Compiles Excellent Record

The Production Department of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, has been one of the outstanding programs during the war. Under the leadership of Mrs. Thomas Hayes and Mrs. Thomas Hayes, Jr., units in Accord, Big Indian, Ellenville, Highland, Kerhonkson, New Paltz, Phoenicia, Pine Hill, Port Jervis, Saugerties, Shokan, Stone Ridge, Walkill and Woodstock, also the Friday Club, the Tuesday Club and the Vocational School of Kingston High School, all of which include 350 workers, have made 6,784 garments and 2,250 layettes during the past year.

The cutting of these garments has been done by the Balitz Shirt Factory, the Beacon Dress Company, the Fuller Shirt Factory, Hirsch Weiss Mfg. Company, S. Jacobson and Sons, Kingston Knitting Mills, Kingston Robe Company, Manhattan Shirt Company, and Max Ulman Inc. These professional cutters have been of great help for they have been able to cut to such good advantage that more garments have been obtained from the material. All this service has been a voluntary contribution on the part of the factory management and cutters.

Need Still Great

There is still a great need for these garments for the rehabilitation of the people in the war torn countries. A new quota of 1,250 garments has just been assigned to Ulster county and we hope the band of workers will stand by until the job is done.

Mrs. William Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge has been responsible for the assembling and shipping of the layettes, each layette containing 18 pieces. Many of these

The Lady Could Be Prejudiced on This

Buffalo, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Mrs. Maxine Berlitz Vollmer, author, told an audience of advertising men yesterday that civilization has been featured by a struggle of man to keep woman in her place because he is afraid of her.

"The savage feared his woman because of magic," Mrs. Vollmer contended. "He was afraid he would catch her weakness. In early Christian times, he feared her as a temptation and during the Renaissance, the historical phenomenon of the 'lady' appeared."

"I think it's high time we drop the artificial term 'lady' for they earned the right during this war to call themselves just 'women' without apologizing for it," she added.

Work Completed For Bus Service

Last Indication Removed That 'Car Barn' Once Housed Trolleys

An extensive remodeling program launched by the Kingston City Transportation Corporation four months ago has transformed the corporation's garage and offices at 14 East Chester street into one of the most modern city bus service establishments in the Hudson Valley.

Henry C. Page, president of the bus company, revealed this morning that the completion of work in the building has removed the last indications that the "car barn" once housed the orange trolleys, and that a modern plant is now available for city bus service.

Plans for the remodeling program were prepared by local architect Harry S. Halverson, with the L. H. Swenson Company of Poughkeepsie as general contractors. It was pointed out that the contractors had employed local men on the project and that the work had been accomplished by 100 per cent union labor.

In the garage proper, a heavy, reinforced concrete floor extends throughout the entire space, with three pits instead of the formerly used. Overhead, an insulated ceiling has been installed which not only enhances the appearance of the garage but is calculated to bring about a great reduction in the cost of heating the building. The heating plant has been renovated and oil heat is now used. Fluorescent lighting has been installed over the work benches which are located in the rear of the building.

The rear corner of the building, adjacent to Broadway, which formerly housed the old trolley car paint shop, has been remodeled to include a stock room for bus parts on the ground floor. A second floor has been constructed in this section, with the upper floor given over to a modern recreation room for the company's employees. This room is lighted with modern fluorescent lights and is decorated in two-tone wallboard finish. Adjacent to the recreation room is a well-equipped kitchen and toilet facilities for the use of the employees.

Along the East Chester street side of the building are located the offices of the concern. The space occupied by the office for the past several years has been redecorated, with two-tone wallboard forming the side walls, and a modern ceiling. The main business office and that of the company's vice-president, Thomas J. Gadd, occupy this ground floor space. Fluorescent lighting has been installed here too. Upstairs, over the main offices, is located the office of the president of the company. This office is also completely modern and occupies a space used formerly for storage purposes.

The building has been repainted on the exterior and a large sign has been placed on the Broadway side designating the property as the home of the Kingston City Transportation Corporation.

President Page stated that visitors to the premises would be welcomed and would be shown throughout the property which is now ready for more adequate servicing of the fleet of buses owned and operated by the corporation.

Spring Weather

Springlike temperatures returned to Kingston today with the official city thermometer recording 47 degrees at 8:30 o'clock while the lowest temperature registered during the night was 39 degrees. Tuesday temperatures in the city ranged from a low of 21 degrees in the early morning to a high of 51 degrees during the afternoon.

Amalgamated Clothing Workers Protest Bills

The organized shirt and pajama workers of Kingston, N. Y., members of Local 186, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, at its meeting held on March 11, 1946, have gone on record against the passage of two bills introduced in the State Assembly.

The Brees Bill, A. I. 1778, Print 1923, Assemblyman Orlin M. Brees, calls for a one and one-half per cent payroll tax on the workers to be deducted from their pay by the employers as a contribution to the Unemployment Insurance Fund. In effect this is a one and one-half per cent cut in wages for every worker in New York State covered by Unemployment Insurance. This Brees Bill would shift the burden of unemployment insurance payments from the employer to the worker. Then in addition to the rebates now given to the employers from the Unemployment Insurance Fund which amounted to 77 million dollars last year, they would receive another rebate by forcing the workers to contribute to the Unemployment Insurance Fund.

The Statute of Limitations Bill, A. I. 1899, Print 2061, introduced by Assemblyman Harry A. Reoux, is another attempt to cripple the Wage and Hour Law by the imposition of a one year limitation on workers' claims for backpay. This bill will result in depriving workers of overtime pay and minimum wages that are due them under the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Petitions against the passage of these two bills affecting workers, are being sent to Assemblyman John Wadlin and communications to Governor Dewey and other officials at Albany.

Parish Chairmen Appointed for Catholic Drive

Preliminary steps for organizing approximately 15,000 volunteers who will conduct a house-to-house canvass for the twenty-seventh annual appeal of New York Catholic Charities, included the appointment this week of lay chairmen in each of the 374 parishes of the New York Archdiocese. This territory includes the boroughs of Manhattan, the Bronx and Richmond and the counties of Westchester, Dutchess, Orange, Rockland, Ulster, Sullivan and Putnam.

The lay chairmen, working with the parish directors will be responsible for the formation of committees, and assignment of workers who will be organized into teams, each under the direction of a captain. The parish appeal this year is scheduled for March 31 to April 10, the period designated by Francis Cardinal Spellman.

Parish lay chairmen for the churches of Ulster county are as follows:

John Tiano of East Kingston, St. Colmans; Peter Otens of Oak Ridge, St. Andrew's at Ellenville; James J. Morrow of Ellenville, St. Mary's; Frank Campochiaro of Glasco, St. Joseph's; Matthew Fordan of 15 Purvis street, Kingston, Holy Name of Jesus; Miss Theresa Brophy of Creek Locks, Kingston, St. Joseph's; Kenneth J. Geary of 224 West Chester street, Kingston, St. Peter's; John B. McGowan of Marlborough, St. Mary's; Frank Mandy of North Road, Highland, St. James, Milton.

Thomas De Lorenzo of New Paltz and Albert Moran of Gardiner, St. Joseph's at New Paltz; George Conway of Phoenicia, St. Francis de Sales; Charles H. Granwehr of 392 Main street, Saugerties, St. Mary's; Paul Joyce of West Hurley, Kingston, St. John's; William C. Hussey of 23 Rogers street, Kingston, St. Mary's; Frank Zakrzewski of 42 Second avenue, Kingston, Immaculate Conception; John A. Henry of Port Jervis, Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary; Edward Leahy of Sawkill, St. Ann's, Kingston; Joseph O'Connor, Creek Locks, St. Peter's Rosendale.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(N.Y. World Traveler)

Bern, March 13—This is an interesting time for us here in Switzerland, for we must get used to our job of globetrotting. We've had a grand time, for you've been mighty fine to us and we are appreciative. Our feelings about you were well expressed by a Yankee sergeant with whom we were chatting last night—one of the 200,000 American soldiers who have been fortunate enough to get leave for a brief tour of Europe. When we asked him how he liked it here, he raised his right hand and with shining eyes declared:

"It's 100 per cent—hospitality, fine people, good food, wonderful scenery. What a change from Germany."

Well, that's the way we feel about you too, Switzerland. You're 100 per cent.

There are many things we like about your glorious little state perched among the Alps, but I think we must place first your sturdy character and fine principles.

It's good to meet folk who think right and live right. I guess maybe it would be difficult to have mean thoughts up here on the peaks so close to heaven.

We like the way you cling to traditions and heirlooms—combining the old with the new so charmingly that the blend is perfect.

Mrs. Mack and I have spent hours among historic buildings which have grown gray with the centuries. We've been fascinated by that huge, 300-year-old clock in the stone tower of Bern's ancient city gate—still faithfully recording the seconds, minutes, hours, days and months, while the life-size figure of a man strikes the hours with mighty swings of his hammer.

And I don't know how many times we've stopped to look at the quaint statue of the fat ogre about to swallow a baby, with other squirming youngsters in a bag ready to follow. They say mothers of days long past used to warn naughty children that the ogre would get them if they weren't good. I tried that with Mrs. Mack, but she only snuffed and said she didn't believe in ogres.

Some folk are inclined to brush aside traditions and heirlooms as too much out of date to be useful. But our observation is that these links with the past are part of the fiber of a nation.

We've had a memorable experience here, but we must be going. It's so long for now, Switzerland. Good luck, we'll be seeing you.

U.N.O. Is Bursting Out Over---N. Y. Nobody Knows Where It Will Settle

By ARLENE WOLF
(N.Y. Newsfeatures Writer)

New York, March 13 (AP)—The U.N.O. is busting out all over—over New York. For five months, Gothamites have watched a game of put-and-take with world capital sites—temporary sites, interim sites, permanent sites, sites for the Security Council and sites for the General Assembly.

Even now that the temporary (not to be confused with interim, which is temporarily permanent) headquarters of Hunter College, the city is still in a tizzy. Not that New York confuses easily. It can take a tugboat strike and a city-wide shutdown in stride. It handled meatless Tuesdays and Fridays with great savoir faire. It can put up even with not knowing where its next pound of butter is coming from. But a five-month housing puzzle is too much—especially for a city that's popping its own population seams without any help from the new world capital.

Where all the confusion is going to end, nobody knows. Probably even the U.N.O. doesn't know. But it's easy to see where it began. Gotham put its two cents in long before the U. S. was selected as the U.N.O. home, and even longer before the need of both a temporary and a permanent site was known. That was back in November of last year, when the city offered the old World's Fair site in Flushing park as a permanent home for the world capital. At the time, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Poughkeepsie, Black Hills, the Hawaiian Islands and sundry other spots were also in the bidding. All this eagerness led Yugoslavian delegate Stoyan Gavrilovic to say it ought to be pretty easy to find a spot for the U.N.O. in the U. S.

It wasn't until the middle of February that New York was selected definitely as U.N.O. temporary home, but the organization previously was offered such housing come-ons as Manhattan Center (a large hall down on 34th St.), the City Center (formerly the Mexico Temple, and now the municipal cultural hub of the city), and the Sperry Gyroscope plant out on Long Island. No one could keep track of what part of the U.N.O. was supposed to go where, but nobody minded too much. New Yorkers were pleased that they could offer such a selection of housing facilities.

After the city snatched the brass ring on the U.N.O. merry-go-round, there was talk about the famous old Whitehall Reid Mansion at 51st street taking care of the Security Council. Paired with this was a suggestion to put the 5,000-odd person General Assembly meeting in the fall in the Center Theater in Rockefeller Center, where an ice show holds forth. Nelson Rockefeller offered the theater to the U.N.O. for free, but it later developed that the U.N.O. might have to pay the cost of the show-salaries for stagehands, musicians, skaters, electricians, etc., which added up to a potential $35,000 a week. Before New Yorkers got used to that idea, the Empire State building was mentioned as a working spot for the Secretariat. There was a big "if" about that too—21 government agencies on the premises which would have to be moved out if the Empire State was to be used. By February 21, Grover Whalen was understandably moved to enlarge his committee on U.N.O. arrangements.

Three days later, the committee on the U.N.O. site was hovering over Hunter College's gymnasium building in the Bronx. Someone pointed out that the Kingsbridge Armory right around the corner from the college would be fine for the General Assembly. On such ways, buses, over dinner tables and breakfast coffee, subway-wise New Yorkers speculated on how the General Assembly ever would make its collective way up to the Bronx. Bronxites shook their heads over the lack of eating facilities in the neighborhood.

Meanwhile, former Mayor LaGuardia suggested the Queens City Hall. Someone else thought an annex of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. building in the 20's was made to order for the U.N.O. Borough President James Lyons of the Bronx rooted for a long-time stay at Hunter College. Green-wich, Conn., the inhabitants who faced displacement if the permanent U.N.O. home were in their territory did some protesting of their own. New York was bewildered. The bewilderment wasn't lessened a bit when the news came out that the temporary home of the U.N.O. might turn into a sort of permanent temporary home until the permanent home (in the New York-Connecticut area) was ready. Three to five years in the Bronx was one prospect for the world capital. At the same time, U. S. by the U.N.O. is indeterminate. The exact number of delegates isn't certain.

New York is about in the position of a hostess who's trying to plan a week-end party for a large number of people who may decide to stay for a month. It isn't that the hostess doesn't want company to Veterans, Demobilized War Workers, Small Businessmen! Gives Full Details of New York State's Plan for Small Business Expansion! Invaluable help, tips, guidance!

—she'd just like to know who's coming, and for how long they're going to stay.

New York State has a Plan to help veterans, demobilized war workers, and small businessmen, build sound, profitable futures for themselves in their own business. It's a Plan that will benefit everyone in the State.

Under this Plan, facts you need to know about going into business—or expanding a business you may now have—are given in detail. Complete and authoritative information on the fundamentals of business operation—sound management, financing, bookkeeping and accounting, advertising and publicity! Things many a business man spends years in learning!

Vital Facts for Success!

The Plan has the endorsement and enthusiastic approval of many prominent business leaders. It lists the aid of successful local businessmen in many communities—men who give valuable information direct—plus local facts that only they can tell you: the various kinds and types of business most needed in your locality, the best locations for such business, the local labor situation, and so on. Vital facts you must know if you are to succeed!

Now is the Time to Act!

Right now is the time to act—if you are going to start or expand a business. Millions of dollars in pent-up savings are going to be spent for new products and services. There is a great opportunity to replace small enterprises that discontinued during the war.

Through New York State's Plan for Small Business Expansion, thousands of men and women will be helped to start on the road to independence and success in their own business—and communities everywhere will benefit from the prosperity thus brought about.

Everything offered you under this Plan costs you absolutely nothing. The Plan stands as additional proof of the advantages of doing business in New York State. So send now for the booklet outlining in detail the various kinds of help you can get under the Plan. Tear out the coupon below and mail it today.

NEW YORK MEANS BUSINESS

A.P. President Notes New Surge Of Oriental Support for U.S.

Philadelphia, March 12 (AP)—Robert McLean, president of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and the Associated Press, declared Monday that a dynamic new force—a surging tide of renewed admiration for the strength that flows from democracy—is at work in the Far East.

This new force, said the publisher who has just returned from a 20,000-mile tour of the Orient, is helping to bring about miracles of political progress.

McLean, together with Benjamin McKelvey, associated editor of the Washington Star, and Norman Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, toured the Orient at the invitation of the Secretaries of the Army and Navy.

Particularly in China, McLean asserted, reawakened admiration for democracy has become a vital factor in Far Eastern affairs. General George C. Marshall and other American military leaders have helped shape stable foundations for democratic governments that "assure lasting peace in the Orient."

McLean said that General Douglas MacArthur, Supreme

Allied Commander in Japan, is finding himself something of a Japanese hero.

MacArthur's Hero
"When he leaves his office for luncheon," he stated, "he invariably meets a crowd of several hundred or thousand people who often have waited for hours just to see him walk to his car. He drives past without a glance."

"The legend even has sprung up among them that MacArthur's mother was Japanese—which explains, of course, to the Japanese mind, how he could conquer them."

In China, McLean said he found everywhere "grave concern over the possibility of increased Russian infiltration" into Manchuria, Korea and the area in northern China where Chinese Communists have control.

This possibility, he continued, has been lessened by two factors, the personality of Chiang Kai-Shek and the vigor and ability with which General Marshall and other American officers have moved to strengthen democratic

Chiang's policy, based on belief in a united and democratic China, "embraces many of the benefits which the Chinese Communists have promised to their followers: lower taxes, wide ownership of land, broadening of voting power and education," the publisher said, adding:

"There is no question of the desires of the people in all areas where true democracy and Russian Communism come in contact—and they should have the opportunity of choice."

"Unity in China," he said, "will assist greatly in assuring democratic principles the opportunity to expand and establish themselves in the Far East."

Purim Parley

Congregation Ahavath Israel, 72 Wurtz street, plans a Purim Parley in its vestry room on Sunday evening, March 17, at 8 o'clock. Martin Spiegel will act as master of ceremonies, and local talent will entertain. A cold buffet will be served, and all members and their families are welcome.

Soldier Classification

In the early Roman constitution the citizens, all of them soldiers, were classified according to the equipment which their means made possible. Soldiers in early armies equipped themselves.

Jinn is the name of a class of spirits in Arabian mythology.

Feed Your Dog as Many Famous Breeders Do

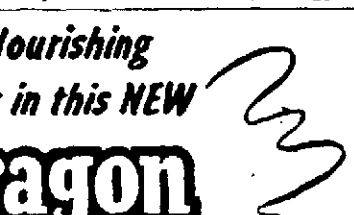

"...find they like it and thrive..."
Mrs. Dorothy Kennedy, noted dog breeder of 3570 N. Western Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have been feeding my Scotty and Kerry Blue puppies and find they like it and thrive on it. Their coats are glossy and I have had no trouble with digestive upsets. I recommend it."

MOST breeders and veterinarians base their dogs' diets on a good dry dog food fed with scrap meat, including fat. So many depend on Kellogg's dog-food because this famous food provides every vitamin and mineral dogs are known to need.

Kellogg's dog-food is economical... convenient to feed. Watch your dog go for its hearty, meaty flavor, and thrive!

New Paltz State Teachers Shatter Kerhonkson Streak 48-4

Farmers Stopped After Annexing 15 Straight Games

Teachers Take Early Lead and Are Threatened Only in Last Few Minutes of Play

Ulster county's most impressive basketball winning streak was buried on the planks of the New Paltz State Teachers College gym last night, when the Teachers registered a spectacular 48-45 triumph over the hitherto undefeated Kerhonkson Farmers.

The New Paltz triumph in one of the most sensational games ever witnessed in the hallowed gymnasium shattered a 15-game winning streak of the Farmers. It was the seventh straight for the victors.

With its combination of wartime players and returned vets, the Teachers assumed command of the game in the opening minutes of play and were never headed.

Trailing 26-37 at the start of the fourth quarter, the Farmers, victors over the best teams in the area, launched a furious counter assault but the Teachers clung to a three-point margin when hostilities ceased.

Viggo Tops Scorers
Viggo, sharpshooting forward, set the pace for New Paltz's triumph with 19 points, while Heroy tossed in 13 from the center slot. W. Quick and H. Koppel tallied 14 and 10 respectively for Kerhonkson.

New Paltz opened up a 13-4 bulge in the opening quarter and the Farmers were never able to untrack themselves sufficiently to overcome that early deficit. The Teachers widened the gap to 27-14 at the half and were in front 37-26 when the Farmers countered with their spectacular but futile rally.

Ferraro-Sparando Match Set for Alleys 5-6-7-8 at Recs

RED PITT COACH

Ferraro (above) was head football coach of the Ferraro-Sparando team, which defeated the Spartans in a 12-0 victory in the final game of the season.

Final arrangements for the Johnny Ferraro-Tony Sparando challenge match were completed in New York over the week-end, with only one change in the original plans.

Instead of using three sets of alleys, the competition will be confined to alleys 5, 6, 7 and 8. The 30-game test will start on 5 and 6 Saturday night at 9 o'clock. The regulars will change alleys every five frames.

The new setup was arranged in order to provide more consistent seating arrangement for the large crowds anticipated for each block. The two sets of alleys are the highest scoring lanes in the establishment, with the exception of 15 and 16 downstairs.

A few good reserved seats are still available for all three blocks. Virtually all of the seats sold at the door this week-end will be rush seats.

Sparando came through the doubles test with Varipapa against Joe Wilman and Julie McMahon with increased prestige and is shooting at top form.

Ferraro, with a pair of rousing league triples behind him, has been rounding into form with daily 10-game stints in which he has average consistent better than 210.

Nations Should Speak Plainly Says Senator
Washington, March 13 (AP)—Air-clearing statements by American officials promoted confidence in Congress today that there will be no muzzling of words when the United Nations Security Council tackles pressing world problems.

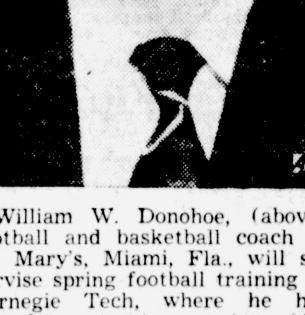

Senator George (D. Ga.) told a reporter he expects a candid, open and above-board discussion of international spot spots during the council's New York meeting—a course he said promises the best hope for settlement.

"The time has undoubtedly arrived when nations should speak plainly, and they won't lose anything by doing it," he declared.

Motor Mishaps Deaths
Of accidental deaths among American soldiers of the Mediterranean Theatre of Operations in one month, 55 per cent were due to motor mishaps, 10 per cent by drowning, 10 per cent by falls, and five per cent by mines.

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 13 (AP)—After using 19 players, including all of his standouts, and getting only five hits out of them against the Philadelphia Phillies, Manager Billy Southworth vows his Boston Braves will get double batting drills daily until they break camp.

Tampa, Fla., March 13 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, unbeaten in exhibition games with the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians, meet the St. Louis Cardinals today at St. Petersburg—the first of three successive "on the road" contests.

Havana, March 13 (AP)—The Washington Senators are not letting organized baseball's differences with the Mexican League interfere with their signing of Cuban players. Six Cubans now are on Washington's roster. All but two probably will be sent to Washington's minor league farms.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 13 (AP)—Red Barrett, Ken Burkhardt and Ted Wilks are manager Eddie Dyer's choices to hurl for the St. Louis Cardinals in today's game with the Cincinnati Reds.

Anaheim, Calif., March 13 (AP)—Jack Kramer will make his first start of the season today when the St. Louis Browns play the Chicago White Sox.

Lakeland, Fla., March 13 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, beaten in four straight road games in as many days, came "home" today for a rematch with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 13 (AP)—Schoolboy Rowe, once pride of the Detroit Tigers mound staff, is showing flashes of his oldtime form with the Philadelphia Phillies this spring. Yesterday he served up a full assortment of screwballs, knucklers and even a few fast ones in limiting the Boston Braves to two blows in his three inning chore. Rowe, who is 32, spent two years in the navy.

Pasadena, Cal., March 13 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns meet in a pair of exhibition games today, one game to be played here and the other at nearby Anaheim.

Army Air Forces In Three Major Combat Commands

General Spaatz Declares Atomic Bomb Makes Certain Future War in the Air

Washington, March 13 (AP)—The Army Air Forces were streamlined Tuesday into three major combat commands by Gen. Carl Spaatz, who declared the atomic bomb made it "almost" certain any future war would begin with air action.

The new chief of the nation's air arm announced the following combat groupings for the postwar set-up.

The Strategic Air Command, composed of long range striking forces, the Air Defense Command, responsible for the aerial protection of the continental United States, and the Tactical Air Command, which will cooperate with surface forces.

These will be supplemented by five supporting commands, and by Air National Guard and Air Reserve Forces. A revised "air university" system of schooling already has been put into effect.

Spaatz asserted in a statement that "the best insurance against an unannounced aerial attack is an adequate alert air force-in-being."

"The Air Forces must be prepared to meet, at points well beyond the continental limits of the United States, any attack aimed at the national security," he said.

"The atomic bomb has provided a weapon which tremendously increases the effectiveness of air power," he continued. "From this it follows that any future conflict will begin with air action, and may well be concluded with it."

Spaatz called for "full parity and co-equal status with the ground and naval service," under a single department of national defense.

In addition to the three combat commands, the blueprint calls for an Air Materiel Command, Training Command, Air Transport Command, the Air University, and an Air Force Proving Ground Command.

The 'Paid Man'
The word soldier means "paid man." The first soldiers were mercenaries, bodies of troops attached to a leader who hired himself and his force to any power that would pay them.

President Calls
Byrnes to Parley

Important Confab Precedes Press Conference Stated for Tomorrow

Washington, March 13 (AP)—President Truman today called in Secretary of State Byrnes for a review of the foreign situation, and the White House termed the meeting a number of British reports dealing with purported new United States moves in international affairs.

The specific points set down for the Truman-Byrnes conversation were not disclosed, but presumably they will encompass the Russian moves in Iran and Manchuria and the American protests against the Soviet actions.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross was asked at a news conference about a series of reports published in Britain that Mr. Truman was seeking a new meeting of the "Big Three," that the President had been in communication with British Prime Minister Attlee and that he also was trying to contact Marshal Stalin.

Reports Inaccurate

"On the whole," Ross said, "these reports don't contain a great degree of accuracy." Ross also put in the same category a report—as a newsman phrased it—"that there may be a break in diplomatic relations if the Russians don't get out of Iran."

Asked specifically whether he could deny a report that President Truman had been in telephonic, telegraphic or other communication with Prime Minister Attlee, Ross said:

"I don't know if he has (communicated with) or has sought to get into communication with Mr. Attlee. If he has, he hasn't taken me into his confidence."

Ross said that Mr. Truman will hold his weekly news conference at 4 p. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow. Questions on the foreign situation likely will be asked then by newsmen.

Would Provide Maternal

Aid for Service Women

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Blessed evening involves a disability, the Veterans Administration's Women's Expert declared today, and needy ex-service women should be entitled to the necessary care at government expense.

"She should get it by virtue of her status as a veteran," said Lt. Col. Mary Agnes Brown, "I feel women should have the same service on disabilities as the men have and I feel that at present in that respect they are not getting it."

Col. Brown, adviser on Women Veterans Affairs to General Omar N. Bradley, head of the agency, said in an interview she had submitted recommendations to her chief but that he ruled against a change in procedure at this time.

But Col. Brown said she has re-submitted her proposals. Under their legislation would be sought whereby the pregnant ex-WAC or WAVE who said she couldn't afford to pay would choose her own physician and hospital with the government footing the bill.

Old Court House Safe

Consigned to Junkpile

A large old safe which has done duty in the district attorney's office for a long term of years, was removed this morning by Van Etten & Hogan and consigned to the junk yard. No one about the court house seemed to know just how ancient the safe was, but it was agreed that it had outlived its usefulness and had been the object of adverse comment for a long time.

G. W. Van Slyke,
Cigar Maker, Is Dead in Albany

George W. Van Slyke, 73, retired Albany cigar manufacturer, died in Albany last night.

Mr. Van Slyke was president of the G. W. Van Slyke & Horton Company, manufacturers of the Peter Schuyler cigars, with a factory in Albany and one in Kingston, until he retired some years ago.

The Albany plant was discontinued about 10 years ago, and the manufacture of the Schuyler cigars was carried on at the plant on Dederick street.

Van Slyke & Horton is one of the oldest cigar companies in the Hudson river valley. In the early 1900's the local factory was erected.

Goering Relates Early Meetings With Hitler

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Nuernberg, Germany, March 13 (AP)—Herman Goering, dressed in an undecorated gray uniform with a red scarf wrapped around his neck, began his fight today against war crimes charges by testifying soberly at a court martial in the Reichhof Air Squadron three decades ago.

While his white-haired attorney slowly questioned him, Goering mentioned the medals he had won and a wound sustained in fighting for the Kaiser's Reich.

After travel abroad, Goering said he returned to Germany and at an obscure political rally in November, 1922, he saw Hitler.

Hitler declined to speak at the rally, Goering recalled, but one day later he heard the future Fuehrer declaim on the Treaty of Versailles and the need for Germany to regain her strength.

"This appealed to me from the depths of my soul," said the leading defendant among the 22 Nazis on trial before the International Military Tribunal. He joined the National Socialist Party and at the same time volunteered his services to Hitler.

Italian Bid

Savannah, Ga., March 13 (AP)—Italy has asked admission to the World Bank and Monetary Fund, it was learned today, and the United States plans to support her bid for early entry. Fred M. Vinson, chairman of the Boards of Governors of the International Monetary Conference on Wilmington Island, informed the membership committee of the Italian request yesterday, a U. S. delegate disclosed.

In 1859, William Grinstead hauled a threshing machine from Leavenworth, Kas., to Fort Bridger, Wyo., a distance of 1,500 miles.

Reveal Superiority of Japanese Torpedoes

Tokyo, March 13 (AP)—Japanese torpedoes were better than American or British. They carried a larger explosive charge, had more range and greater speed, and left no air bubble trail.

Capt. Allan L. Dunning, who directed a U. S. Navy technical mission to study closely guarded war secrets of the Japanese Navy, announced those findings today upon completion of his project.

Navy officials and correspondents had known of the Japanese torpedo's superiority since very early in the war but newsmen were not permitted even to hint at the fact.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 12 Takes Hike

The boys of Troop 12 took their monthly hike last Sunday to the hills overlooking Kingston. A large turnout enjoyed games and their own cooking. During mealtime a large vulture glided over to see what was on the fire. The hike was under the leadership of John Rosa.

The troop talked about birthday party that will take place April 5 will be held in the First Dutch Sunday school room. This should prove to be a gala affair as the boys are working feverishly in preparation.

This troop meets every Friday at Bethany Chapel. The meeting starts promptly at 7:30. Plans have been made to resume the well-known drum corps which has been inactive for a short period due to the lack of members. Former members or those wishing to join are invited to attend Friday's meeting.

Montgomery to Meet

Connecticut Belter

New Haven, Conn., March 13 (AP)—Matchmaker George Shepard of the Arena A. C. today announced that he had paired Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia, recognized in New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and affiliated states as the world's lightweight champion, and Ernie Petrone of New Haven, formerly of Philadelphia, for a 10 round over-the-weight bout at the Arena on March 21.

Petrone earned the shot, Shepard said, by trimming New Haven's Julie Kogon for the second time a week ago. Montgomery, gradually fighting his way back to his championship peak, decisioned New York's Tony Pellone in Madison Square Garden last week.

Richard Strauss was taught by his father to read notes before letters, and to play piano at the age of four.

JAP SENTENCED TO HANG

Surface Work

Most of the work to be completed at the Merriman dam site is "above surface" work and one of the big jobs is the placing of 5,600,000 cubic yards of rolled earth against the concrete core wall of the dam and dykes. This earth must be of selected materials, giving regard to moisture content and ability to hold moisture and the earth is spread in thin layers and rolled thoroughly.

There is some work to be done on installation of gate houses and other appurtenances but much of the work is earth work and clearing the site.

Resumption of work on the Lackawack project and the prospect of its completion in four years will move up the second step of the development of the Rondout-Delaware system. The second step will be development of the Neversink section, six miles above the Lackawack project, in Sullivan county.

Once the Neversink project is under way it will mean a resumption of the acquisition of additional lands and this will again speed up work locally in the Kingston office of the Corporation Council of the City of New York through the acquiring of additional lands by the law department.

and compelling necessity for a supplemental appropriation of $38,851.78 within six weeks of the time the budget was adopted before this request be approved.

Further, it is now proposed to issue budget notes for the $38,851.78 appropriated. It seems that these budget notes must be paid for in the 1947 budget and will be included within the 2 per cent tax limitation applying to that budget.

The problem of the 2 per cent tax limitation as applying to the City of Kingston cannot be solved by postponing the day of reckoning by indirect action at the present time. Under the circumstances, therefore, I feel that the Common Council should be hesitant in issuing budget notes until the facts clearly indicate that an immediate and compelling necessity exists.

Recommendations
Your minority member therefore recommends:

1. That information be formally supplied to the Common Council as to the necessity of this supplemental appropriation within six weeks after the adoption of the budget; and

2. That a breakdown be formally furnished to the Common Council as to the manner in which it is proposed to expend the $38,851.78 sought to be appropriated and budget notes issued therefor.

"A Foolish Budget"

Alderman Roth in voting against the adoption of the majority report said that the events of the evening, had proved conclusively that the budget presented by the mayor in January was "a foolish budget", and he hoped that next year a similar budget would not be adopted.

The alderman congratulated the mayor "on adopting the recommendation made by Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk to consolidate the city and county welfare departments."

Alderman Roth contended that the action of the Democratic members in granting additional appropriations was simply deferring payments that should have been included in the budget.

Baptists Entertain Vets
And Wives at Social

A get-together social evening for returning servicemen, their wives and friends was held Tuesday evening in the Albany Avenue Baptist Church when some 40 were in attendance.

A discussion of what the church's program should be for the returning veterans was held, and at the close refreshments were served by Mrs. George Matthews, Mrs. Paul Jones and Mrs. Green.

The committee arranging the event were Dwight Harvey, Al Sonnenberg, Charles Gumaer and Sherwood Davis.

of $14,300,800 to a high bid of $16,767,400. This was the second time that bids were opened for this work, the earlier bids received in September, 1945, having been rejected because of the apparent inclusion of considerable sums as contingency items due to unsettled economic conditions. These earlier bids, five in number, range from $13,919,950 to $19,121,050. On both occasions the same contractor, the S. A. Healy Company of 14 Fisher Lane, White Plains, New York, was the low bidder. After the first bids were rejected the Board of Water Supply caused additional studies and investigations to be made and in accordance therewith modified the contract with a view of obtaining lower prices for the works but the desired results were not attained. The board is convinced that lower bids for the work would not be forthcoming in the immediate future.

"Construction of the Merriman Dam which was started prior to 1941 has been delayed at least four and one-half years as a result of World War II. To wait for the economic situation to improve would mean a delay of at least another year in the completion of the dam. The average consumption of water from the sources supplying the city during the year 1945 was at a rate of 1,078 million gallons of water per day. This consumption of over a billion gallons of water a day exceeded the dependable yield of the sources of supply by 33 million gallons per day. The abnormal rainfall of 1945 which, in fact, was a record, provided this excess. The inevitable further increase in consumption before completion of the dam must result in a deficiency in the supply which, in a dry year, will seriously imperil the health, welfare and industry of the city. The Board of Water Supply, therefore, is under obligation to carry the Delaware project forward with all possible speed and consequently has made the award in the best interests of the city."

Resumption of work on the Lackawack project and the prospect of its completion in four years will move up the second step of the development of the Rondout-Delaware system. The second step will be development of the Neversink section, six miles above the Lackawack project, in Sullivan county.

Once the Neversink project is under way it will mean a resumption of the acquisition of additional lands and this will again speed up work locally in the Kingston office of the Corporation Council of the City of New York through the acquiring of additional lands by the law department.

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Restrictions on issuance of milk dealer licenses to persons already in the business would be removed, under terms of a bill passed unanimously today by the Senate and sent to the Assembly. The measure, sponsored by Senator Rhoda Fox Graves, Gouverneur Republican, would require consideration of an application for a license, regardless of whether or not the applicant was in the milk business.

More than 1,600 deaths from cancer are reported every year for persons under 20 years of age.

Ordinance Fails For Street Repair

streets until such a measure can be approved by the council. It is likely that a special meeting will be called to act on the ordinance, provided it is held to hold a special meeting for that purpose.

The question of legality of holding a special meeting will be investigated by Corporation Counsel Arthur B. Ewig.

The majority report of the finance ways and means committee was signed by Alderman Simpson and Alderman Joseph Amato, and approved the ordinance. The minority report of Alderman Roth, third member of the committee, reads as follows:

"A communication of the mayor, dated March 1, 1946, and of the board of public works, of a resolution adopted by the board of public works on February 15, 1946, by all of which it is now requested that the Common Council authorize street improvements at an estimated cost of $100,000 and the issuance of bonds in the amount of $95,000, have been referred to your committee.

"Wants Definite Information. The minority party in the Common Council, of which I am a member, is pledged to aid in the reconstruction of Kingston's streets, which are in a deplorable condition, and will cooperate to the end that our city might have better streets.

However, before your honorable body acts in the matter it should have definite information formally transmitted to it as to just what streets it is proposed to reconstruct. At the present time your committee is not formally in possession of this information.

Information should also be supplied as to specific costs of the various street improvements proposed to be made.

It is therefore recommended that:

1. Information be formally furnished as to the streets proposed to be affected and the nature of improvements to be made; and
2. Definite estimates of the costs of work to be done on each of the affected streets be furnished.

Spirited Debate

Alderman Thomas F. Coughlin, of the Seventh Ward, led the Democratic attack on the minority report. He said that it was possible to give a rough estimate of the cost of repairing each street, but such a procedure was taken it would delay the street program.

He contended that if the superintendent of the Board of Public Works should estimate, for instance, the cost of rebuilding Broadway at $10,000 and only $7,000 was used in the work that the remaining $3,000 could not be diverted for work on any other street.

On the other hand, he said, if the estimated $10,000 was exceeded, and it actually cost $12,000, the $2,000 where was the extra money to be derived.

Alderman Coughlin pointed out the deplorable condition of the streets, and said that in Ernest Steuding the city had a capable man who knows his job and is not going to waste any of the money appropriated for the street program.

Alderman Roth in reply said that the council could not legally grant a blanket resolution, and that it was true that if any money was saved on the construction of any particular street, the amount saved would go to help pay for the bond issue.

In reply Alderman Coughlin said he did not agree with Alderman Roth as there were too many streets that needed repairs, and he believed that if money was saved on some streets the amount saved should be used in repairing other streets.

"Not Legal" Said Roth

"That's just the point," said Alderman Roth, "the council cannot authorize a bond issue for maintenance or repairs of streets, but only for capital improvements."

Alderman Coughlin said he had a copy of a list of streets proposed to be rebuilt together with the estimates, and that a list had been submitted to Alderman Roth. The alderman from the Seventh Ward read the list.

"It is true that I had such a list furnished me," said Alderman Roth, "but that list has never been formally presented to the Common Council."

He added, "I am not trying to delay street work that is absolutely necessary. We all know that the streets are in deplorable condition, but to make such an ordinance legal it is required that the proceeds from a bond issue be used only for capital improvements, and not for repairs or maintenance of streets."

A Drop in the Bucket

Following the adjournment of the council a conference was held between Alderman Roth, President Schwark, Corporation Counsel Arthur B. Ewig and City Clerk Leo P. Fennelly, at which Alderman Roth said he was willing to "go along with the majority members of the finance ways and means committee, provided a list of streets and the estimated costs be included in the majority report."

Alderman Roth said that there was no question but it would require more than $100,000 to place the streets in condition, and that the amount asked for was but a drop in the bucket.

It was finally decided that the corporation counsel would ascertain if it was legal to adopt an ordinance authorizing a bond issue at a special meeting.

If so, undoubtedly a special meeting will be called to act upon the defeated ordinance.

Fraulein Visits With U. S. Officers Are Curbed

Frankfurt, March 13 (P)—In a move to restrict visits by German girls to the U. S. Army Headquarters compound, army authorities today imposed a 10 p. m. curfew, effective tonight, at which time all Germans must be out of the area. Officials said the curfew order came from "higher headquarters." It was not clear whether the measure had been proposed by the War Department, which recently demanded an explanation of reports that frauleins were permitted to live in the compound with American officers and civilians.

The composer Jean Philippe Rameau was comparatively unknown until his 40th year.

Highest Pay, Short Hours Are Coal Miners' Demands

Washington, March 13 (P)—John L. Lewis left for the coal industry to puzzle over today a wage demand which specified only the highest pay and shortest hours his 400,000 soft coal miners can get.

Firm, but far from his usual dramatic self, Lewis caught operators by surprise at yesterday's opening session of the bituminous coal wage conference at which the industry had expected to hear a concrete pay boost proposal.

Instead, Lewis laid down nine generalized demands, in which he said the United Mine Workers want a new peace-time contract adjusting a variety of problems, including "an increase of wages and reduction of daily and weekly working hours."

A U. M. W. spokesman said the union's bargaining committee would meet industry negotiators with instructions to base the wage issue on shorter hours and job classification differentials—and bargain the best increase they can get.

Actual negotiations may not get underway until next week. Another session of the wage conference was set for today, but it was to be devoted to union arguments in support of the general demands.

Legislative Roundup

By HENRY LEADER

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (P)—Death of the Young bill, characterized by the C. I. O. as "vicious" anti-union legislation, today reflected the determination of Governor Dewey's administration to enter the gubernatorial election campaign with a "clean" labor record.

The Governor's position, well understood by the Republican legislative leaders, is that measures patently intended to cripple the legitimate powers of organized labor should be killed.

The Young bill was placed in that category last night by the state C. I. O. The measure would make a strike illegal unless it were voted in secret ballot by a majority of the union members affected.

Dewey is avowedly proud of his administration's labor record and is reported eager to display it when he campaigns for re-election six months hence.

In a joint statement, State C. I. O. President Louis Hollander and Secretary-Treasurer Harold J. Garno branded the Young bill "even more vicious than the Case bill now pending in Congress."

They described Young as "a man who is constantly trying to set the clock back." His bill, they insisted, "would destroy all the gains the workers have made in our state."

Young said the measure was in the Senate Labor Committee and would stay there. He declared he had introduced it "only for the purpose of discussion."

Other Legislative developments:

1. One of Mayor William O'Dwyer's bills permitting New York City to levy new taxes totaling $78,500.00 a year for the next four years appeared headed toward defeat.

2. Alterations were being made in a proposed constitutional amendment to establish a special court to consider removal of judges for cause or for mental or physical inability to serve.

3. The Pillion bill to name the New York State Thruway the "Memorial Freeway" was withdrawn in the Assembly.

Brass Workers Are Considering Raise

Waterbury Company Says It'll Give 18½ Cents

Waterbury, Conn., March 13 (AP)—A company offer to boost wages 18½ cents an hour was being considered today by striking employees of the Scovill Manufacturing Company, one of Waterbury's "Big Three" brass industries closed by a walkout since early February.

The company's offer, announced yesterday by Vice President Alan Curtiss, was the first sign of a break in a union-management deadlock that has paralyzed production in this center of the nation's brass industry and kept some 20,500 workers idle.

John J. Mankowski, spokesman for the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union (C.I.O.), said the strikers would hold a mass meeting at 8 o'clock tonight to vote on the offer.

Whether the Scovill development would have any effect on strikes in the other two of the "Big Three"—American Brass and the Chase Copper and Brass Company—on a threatened strike in the Bridgeport Brass Company, scheduled for tomorrow, remained problematical.

In 1941, 34,000,000 motor vehicles rolled up 348,000,000,000 miles of travel in the United States.

Hurley Barn Going to Sleepy Hollow

Ancient barn at Hurley, one of the oldest landmarks in this early colonial settlement, is being dismantled and will rise again in Philips Castle Restoration at Sleepy Hollow, North Tarrytown.

Ancient Building Is Treasured as Colonial Model

Will Be Transported to New Shrine at Philips Castle Restoration

Ulster county is to have the distinction of being represented by a specimen of its architecture of colonial days in the well known Philips Castle Restoration at Sleepy Hollow, North Tarrytown. The county's contribution to this notable project is an old barn on the property of Lyman T. Schoonmaker at old Hurley, near Kingston, and it is said to be one of the oldest landmarks in this early colonial settlement, in its younger days known as Nieu Dorp.

The present Schoonmaker property was formerly the home of Col. Charles Hardenburgh, around 1780 or '88. It is believed that the old barn doubtless was built by a still earlier owner of the farm which embraced Mr. Schoonmaker's holdings. This ancient barn now is being dismantled. During the past weeks its sturdy frame of hand-hewn timbers has stood naked, stripped of shingles and siding, awaiting the final dismembering of its mortised, tenoned and pinned joinery.

However this does not mark the end of a glorious past. Experienced craftsmen have marked each member of its frame and are carefully taking it apart, to be transported to a new shrine, where it will rise again.

This hardy example of the early Dutch builders' craftsmanship later will be seen by visitors to Sleepy Hollow, North Tarrytown as one of the historic buildings in the Philips Castle Restoration, near Sleepy Hollow Church, in the region made famous by one of the first American authors to gain recognition outside of his own country, Washington Irving.

This recognition of an old Ulster county landmark had its inception when the Philips Castle Restoration engaged Myron S. Teller, Kingston architect and antiquarian and a specialist in the care and rejuvenation of ancient buildings, to make a search for a typical example of an early Dutch barn. The original idea was to build a replica of such a barn.

Mr. Teller discovered this excellent example of what was sought for on the property of Mr. Schoonmaker and instead of copying it was able to arrange for its disposal and rebuilding of the new site, where it will furnish added interest to the many visitors to the Philips Castle and Old Mill, now open to the public.

The Philips Castle Restoration authorities believe that in acquiring this building they are preserving for Americans of the present and future the finest known example of an ancient Dutch barn in this country. Like the famous old mill at Sleepy Hollow it is viewed as one of the outstanding features of the Restoration.

Mr. Teller, who was a consultant on the special hand-forged hardware when Philips Castle was restored, is now serving as architect for other buildings in the Restoration. He also is participating actively in the restoration of Washington Irving's home, "Sunny-side," at Tarrytown, which will be opened to the public in the fall.

When this work is completed Mr. Teller, who formerly was senior partner in the firm of Teller and Halverson, architects, will return to Kingston and resume the practice of architecture in his own name.

Garment Workers' Union Meeting

ton community will co-operate with us to accomplish this aim in the American way, by using the methods of peaceful negotiations.

The Mayor Speaks

Mayor Edelmuth said that experience has taught us in these past few years the unionism has improved the working conditions of all our laboring people, and that in this respect it is a firm pillar in the democratic way of life.

The people of Kingston, I am sure, he said, welcome unionism and will encourage its growth, for here we have seen it working with management in a way that all of us can admire. Here in Kingston in recent years we have had no strikes of any serious proportions, for in each instance involving disputes between labor and management both sides have shown a willingness to arbitrate and settle their differences in the interest of the people at large.

The mayor said that today we are happy to welcome to Kingston the I.L.G.W. union, a great organization which has made extraordinary contributions to industrial peace and civic well-being.

Mayor Edelmuth pointed out that the goal of this union was to bring together all garment workers wherever they may be found into an ever growing body dedicated to the fullest satisfaction of their needs as wage earners.

This union, said the mayor, richly merits our respect, our admiration and our cooperation and support. No community, continued the mayor, can be content with anything less than a steady rise in the living conditions and purchasing power of its wage-earning population.

He praised the union which he said had consistently guided its members to understand the world, nation and city they live in. It has secured paid vacations, health funds, and welfare benefits on an expanding scale, so that its members can better enjoy the money they earn.

The mayor said that all were aware of the history of unionism, of its struggles throughout the years. "We older folks," he said, "have personal knowledge of the wage and working conditions that existed more than a quarter of a century ago, the sort of conditions that must never be tolerated by a free people."

"My personal knowledge of these affairs have prompted me to give my heartiest endorsement to the cause of the working people, to unionism and to union leaders," said the mayor in closing.

Let's Face the Facts on Lumber About HOME BUILDING

In the confusion created about the shortage of homes in America, one point stands out clearly:

YOU CAN'T BUILD HOMES WITHOUT MATERIALS!

Lumber and building material dealers and contractors obviously have a vital interest in obtaining materials for home building.

They report, nevertheless, that such materials are not flowing through the yards; that they have not been able to get them. Therefore, the Government's HH priorities offered to enable veterans and others to obtain homes, are simply home hunting licenses—for materials in quantity are not available.

As long as O.P.A. continues its wartime control policy rather than a policy of adjustment to aid reconversion, it will neither be able to prevent an inflation or a deflation; it will only be able to prevent reconversion by discouraging production of needed home building items.

Here, for example, is an instance of O.P.A. action that has resulted in increased production. After 6 months' delay, O.P.A. granted a 4% to 10% price adjustment that allowed 125 of 400 closed brick and tile plants to reopen. This price adjustment allowed these plants and 400 others that had been operating, to hire needed labor. As a result, in the next quarter production rose 35%.

But in hardwood flooring, siding, plywood, mill-work, and construction lumber, O.P.A. clings to its wartime formulas. Instead, O.P.A. follows the unrealistic policy of allowing premium prices to mills for producing lumber for such things as export to foreign countries, and for items that were needed in wartime industry.

Valentine Suggestions On Making Over Jap Cops

Tokyo, March 13 (AP)—Lewis J. Valentine, the former Gotham police commissioner who came to Japan to give this country "cops" just like we have in New York, took one look at a Tokyo policeman today and recoiled in horror.

"My God," he muttered at sight of the little five-foot man, his soiled black uniform, defeated looking cap and unpolished sword. "Not even a cop at the end of the Tononerville Line would wear a uniform like that."

Valentine told a press conference the Japanese policemen "should have uniforms they can be proud of—not those bags they're wearing. And I am taking into consideration the fact they've had to wear the old ones a long time. But they're still terrible."

For the police Valentine wants "efficient telephones and a good teletype system." He favors, too, "cruiser cars and two-way radios instead of this foot patrol business."

War Veteran Speaks To St. Paul's Couples

The monthly meeting of the Couples' Club of St. Paul's Lutheran Church was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dixon, 74 Foxhall avenue. A constitution for the new club was presented and adopted.

The speaker of the evening was Robert Dixon who gave an account of several trophies he had brought back with him from the war. He displayed a German field glass, compass, a Walther 32 caliber automatic, several German bayonets, as well as an American 75 millimeter shell, a 37 millimeter shell, and a 60 millimeter mortar shell. Mr. Dixon served as a leader of a mortar squad of the 8th Armored Division of the 86th Tank Battalion. He served in France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Austria and Germany and at the time of the European victory he was at Goslar, Germany.

After the display and entertainment, refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trodler, 53 Roosevelt avenue.

"La Gioconda" Is Opera For Saturday Afternoon

New York, March 13—Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," a tale of the days of the Inquisition in Venice, will be the Metropolitan Opera broadcast of Saturday, beginning at 2 p. m. over WJZ-3-C. Intermission features will include the weekly Opera News on the Air with Boris Goldovsky, Opera Quiz with Otto Downes as quizmaster and the Opera Round Table.

The four-act score will have Zinka Milanov in the title role, Richard Tucker as Enzo Grimaldo, Margaret Harshaw as La Cieca, Rise Stevens as Laura, Leonard Warren as the infamous Barnaba and Giacomo Vaghi as Alvise. Others in supporting roles include Wellington Ezekieli, Richard Manning, Osie Hawkins, William Hargrave, John Baker and Lodovico Oliviero.

"La Gioconda," with its familiar "Dance of the Hours," the "Heaven and Sea" aria, and the "Suicide" aria, was restored to the Metropolitan's repertoire last season. It was first produced at La Scala in Milan in 1876 and heard at the Metropolitan for the first time in 1933 with Christine Nilsson in the title role. Among other interpreters was Rosa Ponselle.

Kingston Teachers Hear State Association Workers Discuss Program at Local Dinner

Miss Gladys Newell, field worker of the New York State Teachers Association, was guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the local association at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Tuesday evening. Miss Martha Barnett, president of the Kingston Teachers Association, presided. Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools and Mrs. Laidlaw, Bernard Feeney, president of the board of education, and Mrs. Feeney attended along with approximately 70 Kingston teachers. This is the first year that a state worker has spoken to the local group.

Miss Newell gave a stimulating talk. Stressing the past accomplishments of the state teachers association she listed better status and an active social program, aid for schools, higher professional standards, tenure for both city and village teachers, the establishment of a retirement system, and minimum salary laws.

Another phase of her talk dealt with present services of the state association including the uniting of all teachers in a single independent professional organization; a legislative program which last year accomplished state aid, supported the Young Tenure Bill and the Veterans' Bill aiding teachers who entered the service from rural areas not having tenure; and in the third phase furnishing various kinds of information to local groups and sending out legislative bulletins.

The association is now working for a minimum salary bill of $1600 with eight increments. She stressed the need for higher salaries to encourage some of the better students to enter the profession. As she said, in the words of one student considering another profession in preference to teaching, "You can't eat idealism." Because of the present wage scale, Miss Newell predicted a shortage of teachers in 1950.

Other items being considered this year are a cost-of-living adjustment bill; state aid to central schools; an amendment to the retirement act allowing teachers to pay-up for years of prior service; and an increase of state scholarships to $350 instead of $100. Miss Newell concluded by emphasizing the program a local association could adopt to develop better local group public relations with the community; more frequent use of the press; support as a unit worthy organizations. For development of valuable services to the group members she suggested credit unions, group insurance and the formation of an active legislative committee, as well as a good cultural and professional program.

She closed with the idea that local groups should take an intelligent, aggressive span on problems concerning the profession and work for unity of national, state and local teachers associations.

Following Miss Newell's talk there was an interesting question period during which the speaker was asked to explain in more detail some of the proposed projects.

Bills Proposed at Albany

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Assembly for action, carries a $75,000 appropriation. Teeth would be put into grand jury investigations of public officials, under terms of another bill introduced by the Senate Rules Committee. The measure was requested by Senator Pliny B. Williamson, Yonkers Republican and chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The bill provides that any public officer who refuses to sign a waiver of immunity when called to testify before a grand jury on his own conduct, or refuses to answer relevant questions, shall be prohibited from holding any other public office.

Extension of the Postwar Public Works Planning Commission for another year was approved by the Assembly 90 to 50 over solid Democratic opposition. The measure went to the governor for expected approval.

The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a bill providing for the $3,743,000 purchase of a building at 270 Broadway, New York city, for use as state offices.

Bills were introduced by the Assembly Rules Committee authorizing Middletown, Jamestown, Lockport, North Tonawanda, White Plains and Fulton to constitute themselves as city public welfare districts.

A minute investigation into the activities of administrative departments of the state government was endorsed by the Senate, meanwhile, and legislative action was completed on measures to step up state aid for low-cost housing.

Present salaries of the comptroller and attorney general, both elective offices, are $12,000. The commissioner of education, selected by the Board of Regents, receives $15,000.

Rules committees must sponsor all bills, individual introduction having been suspended for the remainder of the session.

The proposed probe of government departments also was sponsored by Wicks, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. The measure, which now goes to the

Work Completed For Bus Service

Last Indication Removed That 'Car Barn' Once Housed Trolleys

An extensive remodeling program launched by the Kingston City Transportation Corporation four months ago has transformed the corporation's garage and offices at 14 East Chester street into one of the most modern city bus service establishments in the Hudson Valley.

Henry C. Page, president of the bus company, revealed this morning that the completion of work in the building has removed the last indications that the "car barn" once housed the orange trolleys, and that a modern plant is now available for city bus service.

Plans for the remodeling program were prepared by local architect Harry S. Halverson, with the L. H. Swenson Company of Poughkeepsie as general contractors. It was pointed out that the contractors had employed local men on the project and that the work had been accomplished "by 100 per cent union labor."

In the garage proper, a heavy, reinforced concrete floor extends throughout the entire space, with three pits now available for work on buses instead of the two formerly used. Overhead, an insulated ceiling has been installed which not only enhances the appearance of the garage but is calculated to bring about a great reduction in the cost of heating the building. The heating plant has been renovated and oil heat is now used. Fluorescent lighting has been installed over the work benches which are located in the rear of the building.

Adjacent to Broadway, which formerly housed the old trolley car paint shop, has been remodeled to include a stock room for bus parts on the ground floor. A second floor has been constructed in this section, with the upper floor given over to a modern recreation room for the company's employees. This room is lighted with modern fluorescent lights and is decorated in two-tone wallboard finish. Adjacent to the recreation room is a well-equipped kitchen and toilet facilities for the use of the employees.

Along the East Chester street side of the building are located the offices of the corporation. The offices of the corporation have been redecorated, with two-tone wallboard forming the side walls, and a modern ceiling. The main business office and that of the company's vice-president, Thomas J. Gadd, occupy this ground floor space. Fluorescent lighting has been installed here too. Cloisters, over the main offices, is located over the office of the president of the company. This office is also completely modern and occupies a space used formerly for storage purposes.

The building has been repainted on the exterior and a large sign has been placed on the Broadway side designating the property as the home of the Kingston City Transportation Corporation.

President Page stated that visitors to the premises would be welcomed and would be shown throughout the property which is now ready for more adequate servicing of the fleet of buses owned and operated by the corporation.

Spring Weather
 Springlike temperatures returned to Kingston today with the official city thermometer recording 47 degrees at 8:30 o'clock, while the lowest temperature registered during the night was 39 degrees. Tuesday temperatures in the city ranged from a low of 21 degrees in the early morning, to a high of 51 degrees during the afternoon.

75 Local Vets Enrolled Here in Training Program

Amalgamated Clothing Workers Protest Bills
 The organized shirt and pajama workers of Kingston, N. Y., members of Local 186, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, at its meeting held on March 11, 1946, have gone on record against the passage of two bills introduced in the State Assembly.

The Brees Bill, A. I. 1778, Print 1933, Assemblyman Orlo M. Brees, calls for a one and one-half per cent payroll tax on the workers to be deducted from their pay by the employers as a contribution to the Unemployment Insurance Fund. In effect this is a one and one-half per cent cut in wages for every worker in New York State covered by Unemployment Insurance. This Brees Bill would shift the burden of unemployment insurance payments from the employer to the worker. Then in addition to the rebates now given to the employers from the Unemployment Insurance Fund which amounted to 77 million dollars last year, they would receive another rebate by forcing the workers to contribute to the Unemployment Insurance Fund. We have consistently opposed the principle of making the workers pay for the Unemployment Insurance Fund.

The Statute of Limitations Bill, A. I. 1899, Print 2061, introduced by Assemblyman Harry A. Roux, is another attempt to cripple the Wages and Hour Law by the imposition of a one year limitation on workers' claims for backpay. This bill will result in depriving workers of overtime pay and minimum wages that are due them under the Fair Labor Standards Act. Petitions against the passage of these bills, vitally affecting workers, are being sent to Assemblyman John Wadlin and communications to Governor Dewey and other officials at Albany.

New Paltz State Teachers Shatter Kerhonkson Streak 48-45

Farmers Stopped After Annexing 15 Straight Games

Teachers Take Early Lead and Are Threatened Only in Last Few Minutes of Play

Water county's most impressive victory in its history was won by the New Paltz State Teachers College gym team last night when they registered a spectacular 48-45 triumph over the hitherto undefeated Kerhonkson Farmers.

The New Paltz triumph in one of the most sensational games ever witnessed in the hallowed gymnasium shattered a 15-game winning streak of the Farmers. It was the seventh straight for the victors.

With its combination of wartime players and returned vets, the Teachers assumed command of the game in the opening minutes of play and were never headed.

Trailing 26-37 at the start of the fourth quarter, the Farmers, under the best team in the area, launched a furious counter-attack but the Teachers clung to a three-point margin when hostilities ceased.

Viggo Tops Scorers

Viggo, sharpshooting forward, set the pace for New Paltz's triumph with 19 points, while Heroy scored in 15 from the center seat. W. Quick and H. Koppel tallied 14 and 10 respectively for Kerhonkson.

New Paltz opened up a 13-4 edge in the opening quarter and the Farmers were never able to untrack themselves sufficiently to overcome that early deficit.

The Teachers widened the gap to 27-14 at the half and were in front 37-26 when the Farmers countered with their spectacular but futile rally.

Won't Box for Awhile

Instead of making plans to box on amateur cards in Kingston's future sports program, Frankie Albright, a ring favorite before he went into the tank corps, will have to content himself at the Kingston Hospital where he is nursing a broken left arm and leg suffered in a recent auto accident. Rosendale Cagers Cop Two Decisions

DeBroskey Scores 27 for Senior Team

The Rosendale basketball team registered another double victory last week when they defeated East Kingston and Walden.

The junior club notched its win over East Kingston by the score of 19-18. Both quintets fought to a 7-all tie at the end of the first half. Garcia scored six points to lead Rosendale while MacCullen dropped in seven for the losers.

In the main feature, the seniors, sparked by DeBroskey, romped over Walden with ease by the count of 60 to 40. DeBroskey flipped in 27 markers to lead both teams. Gil Kelder registered 18. Quick was high for Walden with 11.

REGULATION BALL FOR MEN: In an earlier article the lighter ball was suggested for the ladies, and for the ladies only, because it compensates for the lack of physical strength and enables them to ROLL it faster than the regulation 16 pound ball.

To try handling the maximum weight ball will (1) be a physical hardship and (2) send it slowly tumbling down an alley, out of control, usually, because of dropping it. The 16 pound ball is simply too heavy for the average woman to manage.

I stress the word ROLL because women with few exceptions, have small fingers, weak wrists and forearms, and aren't able to deliver a ball over the foul line. Comfort and accuracy come with an easy release of the ball sent ROLLING consistently along a "payoff" course to the strike pocket between the Nos. 1 and three pins.

The weight of the ball used depends on the stature of the lady, as I mentioned previously. For a bowler weighing about 100 to 110 pounds, a 15 pound ball is suggested; for those 115 to 125 pounds, a 14 pound ball, and either a 15 or 16 pound ball for ladies of such stature that they feel they can manage the heavier ball comfortably.

But for men—a regulation ball, by all means.

High Falls Grabs Twin-Bill Victory

Sweeney and Williams Are Leading Scorers

The High Falls junior and senior basketball teams won a twin-bill Saturday night on their home court over St. Peter's and the Black Hawks of Kingston.

In the preliminary the juniors trounced the powerful St. Peter's club by 39 to 26. Bob Sweeney was top scorer for the winners with 17 points while Grunenwald dumped in the same number for the losers.

With Williams leading the parade with 20 points, the seniors rolled back the Black Hawks in the main feature by the score of 41-22. Riggins scored nine for the Hawks.

Next week High Falls will play Rosendale in the third and final game of the season. A large crowd is anticipated since this is the payoff between these two strong quintets.

Won't Play This Year

New York, March 13 (AP)—Marian Paltrey Cooke, the petite Boston and New York matron who reigned the national women's tennis championship last year, has decided not to play with the U.S. Wightman Cup team this year. The matches will be held in England in June and Mrs. Cooke said yesterday that she would not be able to leave her young daughter to make the trip.

Gold Medal Tournament Opens Friday With 16 Crack Quintets

9-Ciro American Legion vs. Roxbury American Legion.

Friday, March 22

7:30—Newburgh Shapero Jewels vs. Kingston Y.M.C.A.

8:30—Coxsackie Legion vs. Margaretville Legion.

9:30—Winner of Kerhonkson and Caravan Clippers.

Saturday, March 23. triple headers will pit the winners of both Friday and Saturday, March 15 and 16.

The semi-finals will be played on Thursday, March 28.

The finals will be played on Saturday, March 30 unless either the Newburgh or Kingston Y.M.C.A. groups place in the State Y.M.C.A. Tournament in Poughkeepsie. If either of the two "Y" teams are called on to play their State "Y" games on Saturday March 30, then the Gold Medal finals will be played the first week in April.

Other tournament judges are Erwin Crow and Jim Norton.

Besides making the team drawings it will be the duties of the judges to select the first and second All-Tournament teams.

Also the three most outstanding players. There are special medals for the ten most outstanding players in the first round. There is always someone that looks like a fine player even though his team loses.

There will be one medal each for the player that scores the most points in one game and also for the entire tournament. A hard medal winner to select will be the most spectacular shot of all tournament games. There are also medals for all players on the first four winning teams, as well as a large trophy for the grand champion.

There will be one official used in the preliminary and quarter-finals, but two officials will be used in each of the semi-finals and finals, because these games will be considered exceptionally important.

There will be a small door charge made to help defray expenses. Extra seating is now being planned and large crowds are anticipated.

Mikan Top Player

New York, March 13 (AP)—Lanky George Mikan, who tallied 23 points in leading DePaul to a recent victory over Long Island U. in Madison Square Garden, has been named the top scoring basketball player to appear in the big arena this season by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers.

Choose Feeler as Coach

Pittsburgh, March 13 (AP)—An ex-Ohio State football player was named the new University of Pittsburgh grid coach today. Wesley Feeler, now assistant coach at Princeton and a former gridiron aide at Ohio State, was named yesterday to succeed Clark D. Shaugnessy who resigned February 4 to return to the University of Maryland.

In The Pocket

Overlooked in the commotion created by the Varipapa-Sparando victory over Joe Wilman and Junie McMahon was the decisive stride Van Kleek's completed toward clinching Kingston's Hudson Valley League pennant since the organization of the league's premier tenpin circuit.

While Sparando and Varipapa were striding to victory in New York, Van Kleek's battered down Trailways, 2-1, to terminate an intra-mural firing with an amazing record of 10 wins in 12 games. It wasn't much to look at, they tell us, but then neither were Van Kleek's exhibitions in the past. Yet these amazing trundlers were rolling ahead.

Jones Dairy, perennial bulwark of Kingston contenders, Trailways, a bizarre assortment of barbers, salesmen, painting contractors, alley proprietors and jitterbugs, managed to take exactly two games from Van's in 12 starts. That kind of "percentage" hero has strewn nothing but roses in the path of the conquering heroes.

Farmers Trounce Rosendale 53-49 For 15th in Row

Kerhonkson Quintet Wins Third Battle in Week Against County Opponents

Prior to their stunning setback by the New Paltz State Teachers, the Kerhonkson Farmers registered their 15th straight victory Sunday, humbling Rosendale, 53-49, in a Napanoch Institution League game. The Farmers led 28-26 at the half.

The victory climaxed a series of three games in four days for the Farmers, who whipped Ellenville, Saugerties and Rosendale in that space of time.

W. Quick, Kerhonkson's sharp-shooting pivot, sparked his club with 20 markers, while Poppel accounted for 11. Tony DeBroskey was high man for Rosendale with 11, while Kelder, Conklin and Duffy each tallied 10.

Ferraro-Sparando Match Set for Alleys 5-6-7-8 at Rees

RED PITT COACH

Ferraro (above) was head football coach of the city of Pittsburgh, succeeded by T. Shaugnessy. The Ohio State star has been coach and assistant in football and baseball at Princeton.

Final arrangements for the Johnny Ferraro-Tony Sparando challenge match were completed in New York over the week-end, with only one change in the original plans.

Instead of using three sets of alleys, the competition will be confined to alleys 5, 6, 7 and 8. The 30-game test will start on 5 and 6 Saturday night at 9 o'clock. The batters will change alleys every five frames.

The new setup was arranged in order to provide more consistent seating arrangement for the large crowds anticipated for each block. The two sets of alleys are the highest scoring lanes in the establishment, with the exception of 15 and 16 downstair.

A few good reserved seats are still available for all three blocks. Virtually all of the seats sold at the door this week-end will be rush seats.

Sparando came through the doubles test with Varipapa against Joe Wilman and Junie McMahon with increased prestige and is shooting at top form.

Ferraro, with a pair of rousing league triples behind him, has been rounding into form with daily 10-game stints in which he has average consistent better than 210.

ion's Wildlife Benefit by 1,000,000 Fund

York, March 13 (AP)—With years of war bringing wide-spread destruction to many federal nature projects, the U. S. Treasury now has a backlog of $15,000,000 earmarked for the nation's wildlife. M. Rutherford of the U. S. Service said today.

He said, "The fund, accumulated from a tax on arms and ammunition, has been possible uncounted advance in wildlife management. 650,000 acres of land have been purchased by the fund to provide management areas, refuge, and ranges."

Rutherford explained the federal North American Wildlife Fund, of winter feeding to excess big-game populations, of pen-reared birds where food and cover conditions are lacking.

Army Air Forces In Three Major Combat Commands

General Spaatz Declares Atomic Bomb Makes Certain Future War in the Air

Washington, March 13 (AP)—The Army Air Forces were streamlined Tuesday into three major combat commands by Gen. Carl Spaatz, who declared the atomic bomb made it "almost" certain any future war would begin with air action.

The new chief of the nation's air arm announced the following combat groupings for the postwar setup:

The Strategic Air Command, composed of long range striking forces, the Air Defense Command, responsible for the aerial protection of the continental United States, and the Tactical Air Command, which will cooperate with surface forces.

These will be supplemented by five supporting commands, and by Air National Guard and Air Reserve Forces. A revised "air university" system of schooling already has been put into effect.

Spaatz asserted in a statement that "the best insurance against an unannounced aerial attack is an adequate, alert air force-in-being."

"The Air Forces must be prepared to meet, at points well beyond the continental limits of the United States, any attack aimed at the national security," he said.

"The atomic bomb has provided a weapon which tremendously increases the effectiveness of air power," he continued. "From this it follows that any future conflict will begin with air action, and may well be concluded with it."

Spaatz called for "full parity and co-equal status with the ground and naval service" under a single department of national defense.

In addition to the three combat commands, the blueprint calls for an Air Materiel Command, Training Command, Air Transport Command, the Air University, and an Air Force Proving Ground Command.

The "Paid Man" The word soldier means "paid man." The first soldiers were mercenaries, bodies of troops attached to a leader who hired himself and his force to any power that would pay them.

Rent Control Bill
Planned for State

Measure Introduced in Albany Would Hold if O.P.A. Folds

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—The Rules Committee of both houses of the Legislature today introduced a state residential rent control bill, terms of which would be effective if O.P.A. control is lifted.

The bill, introduced by the Rules Committee of both houses, provides for a one-member temporary state housing rent commission and appropriates $2,000,000 for enforcement.

Sponsored by the legislative Joint Rent Committee headed by Assemblyman D. Mallory Stephens, the measure substantially parallels the federal rent control statute.

Stephens said "authoritative information from Washington is lacking in relation to the probable action which Congress will take in respect to the continuation of rent controls in dwellings."

The uncertainty of action by Congress must not, however, be permitted to lull the Legislature into a false state of security. The people of the state are entitled to rely upon the Legislature to make provision against every emergency.

New construction is exempted, Stephens said, in order to encourage building.

The rent control commission would have its principal office in Albany and would be authorized to establish regional offices. Its powers would be similar to those vested in the O.P.A.

Gloria Vanderbilt Ends Allowance for Mother

Mexico City, March 13 (AP)—Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski says she has decided to discontinue an allowance to her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, "because I am certain she can work as she has done in the past and as I am doing at present."

Mrs. Stokowski, wife of symphony conductor Leopold Stokowski, said in a statement last night that she was giving the money formerly supplied to her mother "to blind children and to help feed children who are homeless and starving in many countries." She said she had established a foundation for this purpose.

She issued the statement after Mrs. Vanderbilt was quoted in New York as saying an allowance awarded her by the courts before her daughter came of age had been cut off by Mrs. Stokowski.

Gavriloic to Confer On Connecticut Site

Hartford, Conn., March 13 (AP)—Dr. Stoyan Gavriloic of Yugoslavia, chairman of the United Nations Organization headquarters committee, has accepted an invitation to come to Hartford to talk over a Connecticut site for the world capital.

Governor Baldwin announced yesterday the U.N.O. representative would meet here March 26 with a special sub-committee of Connecticut residents interested in plans for the site, including those from Greenwich where voters recently decided they didn't want the headquarters anywhere in their neighborhood.

The meeting will be held in the executive mansion.

President Calls
Byrnes to Parley

Important Confab Precedes Press Conference Slated for Tomorrow

Washington, March 13 (AP)—President Truman today called in Secretary of State Byrnes for a review of the foreign situation, and the White House termed mostly inaccurate a number of British reports dealing with purported new United States moves in international affairs.

The specific points set down for the Truman-Byrnes conversation were not disclosed, but presumably they will encompass the Russian moves in Iran and Manchuria and the American protests against the Soviet actions.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross was asked at a news conference about a series of reports published in Britain that Mr. Truman was seeking a new meeting of the "Big Three," that the President had been in communication with British Prime Minister Attlee and that he also was trying to contact Marshal Stalin.

Reports Inaccurate
"On the whole," Ross said, "these reports don't contain a great degree of accuracy."

Ross also put in the same category a report—as a newsman phrased it—"that there may be a break in diplomatic relations if the Russians don't get out of Iran."

Asked specifically whether he could deny a report that President Truman had been in telephonic, telegraphic or other communication with Prime Minister Attlee, Ross said:

"I don't know if he has (communicated with) or has sought to get into communication with Mr. Attlee. If he has, he hasn't taken me into his confidence."

Ross said that Mr. Truman will hold his weekly news conference at 4 p. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow. Questions on the foreign situation likely will be asked then by newsmen.

Would Provide Maternal Aid for Service Women

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Blessed evening involves a disability, the Veterans Administration's Women's Expert declared today, and needy ex-service women should be entitled to the necessary care at government expense.

"She should get it by virtue of her status as a veteran," said Lt. Col. Mary Agnes Brown, "I feel women should have the same service on disabilities as the men have and I feel that at present in that one respect they are not getting it."

Col. Brown, adviser on Women Veterans Affairs to General Omar N. Bradley, head of the agency, said in an interview she had submitted recommendations to her chief but that he ruled against a change in procedure at this time.

But Col. Brown said she has re-submitted her proposals. Under their legislation would be sought whereby the pregnant ex-WAC or WAVE who said she couldn't afford to pay would choose her own physician and hospital with the government footing the bill.

Old Court House Safe Consigned to Junkpile

A large old safe which has done duty in the district attorney's office for a long term of years, was removed this morning by Van Etten & Hogan and consigned to the junk yard. No one about the court house seemed to know just how ancient the safe was, but it was agreed that it had outlived its usefulness and had been the object of adverse comment for a long time.

G. W. Van Slyke, Cigar Maker, Is Dead in Albany

George W. Van Slyke, 73, retired Albany cigar manufacturer, died in Albany last night.

Mr. Van Slyke was president of the G. W. Van Slyke & Horton Company, manufacturers of the Peter Schuyler cigars, with a factory in Albany and one in Kingston, until he retired some years ago.

The Albany plant was discontinued about 10 years ago, and the manufacture of the Schuyler cigars was carried on at the plant on Denwick street.

Van Slyke & Horton is one of the oldest cigar companies in the Hudson river valley. In the early 1900's the local factory was erected.

Goering Relates Early Meetings With Hitler

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Nuernberg, Germany, March 13 (AP)—Herman Goering, dressed in an undecorated gray uniform with a red scarf wrapped around his neck, began his fight today against war crimes charges by testifying soberly of a career started in the Richthofen Air Squadron three decades ago.

While his white-haired attorney slowly questioned him, Goering mentioned the medals he had won and a wound sustained in fighting for the Kaiser's army.

After travel abroad, Goering said he returned to Germany and at an obscure political rally in November, 1922, he saw Hitler.

Hitler declined to speak at the rally, Goering recalled, but one day later he heard the future Fuehrer declaim on the Treaty of Versailles and the need for Germany to regain her strength.

"This appealed to me from the depths of my soul," said the leading defendant among the 22 Nazis on trial before the International Military Tribunal. He joined the National Socialist Party and at the same time volunteered his services to Hitler.

Reveal Superiority of Japanese Torpedoes

Tokyo, March 13 (AP)—Japanese torpedoes were better than American or British. They carried a larger explosive charge, had more range and greater speed, and left no air bubble trail.

Capt. Allan L. Dunning, who directed a U. S. Navy technical mission to study closely guarded war secrets of the Japanese Navy, announced those findings today upon completion of his report.

(Navy officials and correspondents had known of the Japanese torpedo's superiority since very early in the war but newsmen were not permitted even to hint at the fact.)

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 12 Takes Hike
The boys of Troop 12 took their monthly hike last Sunday to the hills overlooking Kingston. A large turnout enjoyed games and their own cooking. During mealtime a large vulture glided over to see what was on the fire. The hike was under the leadership of John Rosa.

The much talked about birthday party that will take place April 5 will be held in the First Dutch Sunday school room. This should prove to be a gala affair as the boys are working feverishly in preparation.

This troop meets every Friday at Denham Chapel. The meeting starts promptly at 7:30. Plans have been made to resume the well-known drum corps which has been inactive for a short period due to the lack of members. Former members or those wishing to join are invited to attend Friday's meeting.

Montgomery to Meet Connecticut Beller

New Haven, Conn., March 13 (AP)—Matchmaker George Shepard of the Arena A. C. today announced that he had paired Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia, recognized in New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and affiliated states as the world's lightweight champion, and Ernie Petrone of New Haven, formerly of Philadelphia, for a 10 round over-the-weight bout at the Arena on March 21.

Petrone earned the shot, Shepard said, by trimming New Haven's Julie Kogon for the second time a week ago. Montgomery, gradually fighting his way back to his championship peak decision, edged New York's Tony Pellone in Madison Square Garden last week.

White Plains Firm Will Build Dam

any storage capacity of the Merriman dam as yet.

Surface Work
Most of the work to be completed at the Merriman dam site is "above surface" work and one of the big jobs is the placing of 5,600,000 cubic yards of rolled earth against the concrete core wall of the dam and dykes. This earth must be of selected materials, giving regard to moisture content and ability to hold moisture and the earth is spread in thin layers and rolled thoroughly.

There is some work to be done on installation of gate houses and other appurtenances but much of the work is earth work and clearing the site.

Resumption of work on the Lackawack project and the prospect of its completion in four years will move up the second step of the development of the Rondout-Delaware system. The second step will be development of the Neversink section, six miles above the Lackawack project, in Sullivan county.

Once the Neversink project is under way it will mean a resumption of the acquisition of additional lands and this will again speed up work locally in the Kingston office of the Corporation Council of the City of New York through the acquiring of additional lands by the law department.

In announcing the awarding of the contract, Mr. Huie, stated that the cost would not exceed the bid price of the contractor, $14,400,800, but that in awarding the contract the City of New York was taking advantage of a lower agreement with the contractors that the city would retain "82 percent of the difference between the true necessary actual cost of the work plus a reasonable allowance for overhead and profit, and the final amount of the contract using the original unit bid prices."

It is understood that the contractors will receive a 15 per cent assured profit on the job within the contract price and that the City of New York will participate to the extent of 80 per cent of any further profits which the concern may gain through completion of the work under the contract price.

All contractors in submitting bids took into consideration the present upward trend of labor wages and bids apparently were submitted in sufficient amount to assure completion of the work with financial profit. Should anticipated labor be under the estimated amount the city will participate in the reduced costs under its agreement with the contractor.

In a statement given out, Mr. Huie, president of the Board of Water Supply, said:

"A contract was awarded for this work on March 12 to the S. A. Healy Company, at an estimated cost not in excess of the low bid, which was $14,400,800. The Board's decision to make this award was the result of an offer from the S. A. Healy Company under which that company agrees to share with the city amounts which the company would otherwise be entitled to receive under the bid. In accordance with the agreement made with the S. A. Healy Company, the city will retain 80 per cent of the difference between the true necessary actual cost of the work plus a reasonable allowance for overhead and profit, and the final amount of the contract using the original unit bid prices."

This places the city in a position to recover 4/5 of sums which were included in the Healy Company bid to provide for annual contingencies.

"On February 26, 1946, the Board of Water Supply received three bids for the completion of the Merriman Dam and appurtenant works and the Rondout aqueduct, ranging from a low bid of $11,360,800 to a high bid of $16,767,400. This was the second time that bids were opened for this work, the earlier bids received in September, 1945, having been rejected because of the apparent inclusion of considerable sums as contingency items due to unsettled economic conditions. These earlier bids, five in number, range from $13,919,950 to $19,121,050.

On both occasions the same contractor, the S. A. Healy Company of 111 Fisher Lane, White Plains, New York, was the low bidder. After the first bids were rejected the Board of Water Supply caused additional studies and investigations to be made and in accordance therewith modified the contract with a view of obtaining lower prices for the works but the desired results were not attained. The board is convinced that lower bids for the work would not be forthcoming in the immediate future.

Construction of the Merriman Dam which was started prior to 1941 has been delayed at least four and one-half years as a result of World War II. To wait for the economic situation to improve would mean a delay of at least another year in the completion of the dam. The average consumption of water from the sources supplying the city during the year 1945 was at a rate of 1,078 million gallons of water per day. This consumption of over a billion gallons of water a day exceeds the dependable yield of the sources of supply by 33 million gallons per day. The abnormal rainfall of 1945, which, in fact, was a record, provided this excess. The inevitable further increase in consumption before completion of the dam must result in a deficiency in the supply which, in a dry year, will seriously imperil the health, welfare and industry of the city. Therefore, the Board of Water Supply, therefore, is under obligation to carry the Delaware project forward with all possible speed and consequently has made the award in the best interests of the city."

Dr. Edgar F. Powell, Dutchess county medical examiner, said death was caused by submersion. Identification was made by social security cards found in Connor's pocket.

Coroner Kelly rendered a verdict of death by submersion in the Karius case.

Brass Workers Are Considering Raise

Waterbury Company Says It'll Give 18½ Cents

Waterbury, Conn., March 13 (AP)—A company offer to meet wages 18½ cents an hour was being considered today by striking employees of the Scovill Manufacturing Company, one of Waterbury's "Big Three" brass industries closed by a walkout since early February.

The company's offer, announced yesterday by Vice President Alan C. Curtiss, was the first sign of a break in a union-management deadlock that has paralyzed production in this center of the nation's brass industry and kept some 20,000 workers idle.

John J. Monkowski, spokesman for the Amalgamated Brass and Metal Workers' Union (C.I.O.), said the strikers would meet tonight at 8 o'clock to vote on the offer.

Whether the Scovill development would have any effect on strikes in the other two of the "Big Three"—American Brass and the Chase Copper and Brass Company—and on a threatened strike in the Bridgeport Brass Company, scheduled for tomorrow, remained problematical.

In 1941, 34,000,000 motor vehicles rolled up 348,000,000 miles of travel in the United States.

Hurley Barn Going to Sleepy Hollow

Ancient barn at Hurley, one of the oldest landmarks in this early colonial settlement, is being dismantled and will rise again in Philipse Castle Restoration at Sleepy Hollow, North Tarrytown.

Ancient Building Is Treasured as Colonial Model

Will Be Transported to New Shrine at Philipse Castle Restoration

Ulster county is to have the distinction of being represented by a specimen of its architecture of colonial days in the well known Philipse Castle Restoration at Sleepy Hollow, North Tarrytown. The county's contribution to this notable project is an old barn on the property of Lyman T. Schoonmaker at old Hurley, near Kingston, and it is said to be one of the oldest buildings in the early colonial settlement, in its younger days known as Nieu Dorp.

The present Schoonmaker property was formerly the home of Col. Charles Hardenburgh, around 1780 or '88. It is believed that the old barn doubtless was built by a still earlier owner of the farm which embraced Mr. Schoonmaker's holdings.

This ancient barn now is being dismantled. During the past weeks its sturdy frame of hand-hewn timbers has stood naked, stripped of shingles and siding, awaiting the final dismembering of its mortised, tenoned and pinned joinery.

However this does not mark the end of a glorious past. Experienced craftsmen have marked each member of its frame and are carefully taking it apart, to be transported to a new shrine, where it will rise again.

This hardy example of the early Dutch builders' craftsmanship later will be seen by visitors to Sleepy Hollow, North Tarrytown as one of the historic buildings in the Philipse Castle Restoration, near Sleepy Hollow Church, in the region made famous by one of the first American authors to gain recognition outside of his own country, Washington Irving.

This recognition of an old Ulster county landmark had its inception when the Philipse Castle Restoration engaged Myron S. Teller, Kingston architect and antiquarian and a specialist in the care and rejuvenation of ancient buildings, to make a search for a typical example of an early Dutch barn. The original idea was to build a replica of such a barn.

Mr. Teller discovered this excellent example of what was sought for on the property of Mr. Schoonmaker and instead of copying it was able to arrange for its dismantling and transport to the site, where it will furnish added interest to the many visitors to the Philipse Castle and Old Mill, now open to the public.

The Philipse Castle Restoration authorities believe that in acquiring this building they are preserving for Americans of the present and future the finest known example of an ancient Dutch barn in this country. Like the famous old mill at Sleepy Hollow it is viewed as one of the outstanding features of the Restoration.

Mr. Teller, who was a consultant on the special hand-forged hardware when Philipse Castle was restored, is now serving as architect for other buildings in the Restoration. He also is participating actively in the restoration of Washington Irving's home, "Sunnyside," at Tarrytown, which will be opened to the public in the fall.

When this work is completed Mr. Teller, who formerly was senior partner in the firm of Teller and Halverson, architects, will return to Kingston and resume the practice of architecture in his own name.

Pine Knoll Camp Opens June 24

Applications Have Been Filed With Director

The annual Y.M.C.A. Day Camp at Pine Knoll Camp at DeWitt Lake will open this summer on Monday, June 24, and continue for a six-week period. It was announced today by Physical Director Louis Schafer of the "Y."

Mr. Schafer and his wife have just returned from a conference of camp directors held in New York city, where ideas were exchanged by the 53 camp directors in attendance, and various displays of camp activities, including handicraft work, were shown.

ton community will co-operate with us to accomplish this aim in the American way, by using the methods of peaceful negotiations.

The mayor said that experience has taught us in these past few years the unionism has improved the working conditions of all our laboring people, and that in this respect it is a firm pillar in the democratic way of life.

The people of Kingston, I am sure, he said, welcome unionism and will encourage its growth, for here we have seen it working with management in a way that all of us can admire. Here in Kingston in recent years we have had no strikes of any serious proportions, in each instance involving disputes between labor and management both sides have shown a willingness to arbitrate and settle their differences in the interest of the people at large.

The mayor said that today we are happy to welcome to Kingston the I.L.G.W. union, a great organization which has made extraordinary contributions to industrial peace and civic well-being.

Mayor Edelmuth pointed out that the goal of this union was to bring together all garment workers wherever they may be found into an ever growing body dedicated to the fullest satisfaction of their needs as wage earners.

This union, said the mayor, richly merits our respect, our admiration and our cooperation and support. No community, continued the mayor, can be content with anything less than a steady rise in the living conditions and purchasing power of its wage-earning population.

He praised the union which he said had consistently guided its members to understand the world, nation and city they live in. It has secured paid vacations, health funds, and welfare benefits on an expanding scale, so that its members can better enjoy the money they earn.

The mayor said that all were aware of the history of unionism, of its struggles throughout the years. "We older folks," he said, "have personal knowledge of the wage and working conditions that existed more than a quarter of a century ago, the sort of conditions that must never be tolerated by a free people."

"My personal knowledge of these affairs have prompted me to give my heartiest endorsement to the cause of the working people, to unionism and to union leaders," said the mayor in closing.

until June, already half a dozen applications have been filed with Mr. Schafer, and indications point to the fact this year that the camp will be fully as successful as last year's camp.

Details of the activities planned for this year's camp will be announced later by the camp committee.

Valentine Suggestions On Making Over Jap Cops

Tokyo, March 13 (AP)—Lewis J. Valentine, the former Gotham police commissioner who came to Japan to give this country "cops just like we have in New York," took one look at a Tokyo policeman today and recoiled in horror.

"My God," he muttered at sight of the little five-foot man, his soiled black uniform, defeated looking cap and unpolished sword. "Not even a cop at the end of the Toonerville Line would wear a uniform like that."

Valentine told a press conference the Japanese policemen "should have uniforms they can be proud of—not those bags they're wearing. And I am taking into consideration the fact they've had to wear the old ones a long time. But they're still terrible."

For the police Valentine wants "efficient telephones and a good teletype system." He favors, too, "cruiser cars and two-way radios instead of this foot patrol business."

Let's Face the Facts on Lumber About HOME BUILDING

In the confusion created about the shortage of homes in America, one point stands out clearly:

YOU CAN'T BUILD HOMES WITHOUT MATERIALS!

Lumber and building material dealers and contractors obviously have a vital interest in obtaining materials for home building.

They report, nevertheless, that such materials are not flowing through the yards; that they have not been able to get them. Therefore, the Government's HH priorities offered to enable veterans and others to obtain homes, are simply home hunting licenses—for materials in quantity are not available.

As long as O.P.A. continues its wartime control policy rather than a policy of adjustment to aid reconstruction, it will neither be able to prevent an inflation or a deflation; it will only be able to prevent reconstruction by discouraging production of needed home building items.

Here, for example, is an instance of O.P.A. action that has resulted in increased production. After 6 months' delay, O.P.A. granted a 4% to 10% price adjustment that allowed 125 of 400 closed brick and tile plants to reopen. This price adjustment allowed these plants and 400 others that had been operating, to hire needed labor. As a result, in the next quarter production rose 35%.

But in hardwood flooring, siding, plywood, mill-work, and construction lumber, O.P.A. clings to its wartime formulas. Instead, O.P.A. follows the unrealistic policy of allowing premium prices to mills for producing lumber for such things as export to foreign countries, and for items that were needed in wartime industry.

Today's question is not essentially one of price control—if there were plenty of homes, no price controls would be necessary. The important question is one of production and manpower.

So far, O.P.A. and Government officialdom in general have contented themselves with controls, allocations and priority systems which at best can do nothing but juggle an insufficient supply of building materials—and at worst, delay and retard production and the employment of manpower.

Homes will not be built in the United States unless the Building Industry builds them. Whether they are labeled "Public Housing" or "Private Homes," the same materials, the same labor, the same building industry will build them.

Production can be un-blocked by the removal or adjustment of O.P.A.'s wartime policies. But such a realistic approach cannot be attained as long as Government action is based on a philosophy of lack rather than a philosophy of abundant supply for peacetime prosperity.

The lumber dealers, builders and contractors stand ready to build or rebuild America. But it is up to the people to demand that the way be cleared for the production of materials for homes.

Any government program that does not FIRST remove the obstacles blocking production of materials will simply add additional difficulties to the problem facing the building industry.
